

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

I've been reading the post-mortems on the American election, and they all amount to one extremely simple fact: the outcome was unpredictable.

Every four years the pollsters and social scientists gather for weeks and months in advance to tell the American populace exactly what the result is going to be and why. Then the election takes place and the lesson invariably is that nobody could tell for sure. History is unpredictable — always has been and always will be. History is what happens, and human beings simply aren't endowed with the capacity for knowing future events beforehand.

Only a Game

It's a nice game to guess or bet or gamble, but everybody with some sense knows that it is only a game.

Senator Kennedy was elected president not because of this, that or the other factor, but simply because it happened that way. You can speculate on how much his religion came into it, and his youth, and his brother, and his wife, and his ability to make teen-age girls jump in the air, but in the end you're left with the fact that history happened the way it happened.

After that dramatic election night I was left with a tremendous sense of sheer unpredictability of human events. The pollsters had worked ceaselessly to count and recount their figures, and the historians had told us that there was an inevitable rhythm in history that favored Senator Kennedy.

In the Basket

Then it all happened the way it happened, and the forecasts of the social scientists and historians went where they belong — into the wastebasket.

When will we all learn that the actions of humans can't be foretold — that elections can't be doped out in advance — that future sales can't be market-researched statistically — that success can't be figured out ahead by IQ measurements — that marital happiness or juvenile delinquency do not lend themselves to "scientific" predictions?

When will we all learn to look at history and human life with proper awe and just wait patiently until we see how it all comes out?

Your Good Health!

Hiatus Hernia Sufferers Shouldn't Worry

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

I'm continuing my previous remarks about a hiatus hernia.

Generally it may well be considered as somewhat comparable in severity to a duodenal ulcer. This is a very broad comparison. Hiatus hernia can be very mild. It can also be a miserable nuisance. Or it can, at times, become quite serious. All degrees.

Symptoms can be rather vague. (The same is true of ulcers, as you know.) Maybe some burning or cramping; maybe some pain in the lower chest, either front or to one side. Possibly some trouble in swallowing, or a sense of a lump under the breastbone.

In certain instances, the area involved may ulcerate and bleed — the amount of bleeding may be so small that it can be detected only in chemical analysis.

MANY OVERWEIGHT

It so happens that quite a few patients I've seen with this trouble have been overweight. Extra weight, in the form of fat hidden in the abdomen, can cause pressures and exaggerate the hiatus hernia if it exists. Hence weight reduction alone is sometimes all the treatment that is necessary.

If ulceration (and bleeding) occurs, a bland diet with low residue is in order. Medications to lessen stomach activity (both physical and chemical) may also be very helpful. And if you say this sounds like the treatment for ulcers of stomach or duodenum, you are right!

DON'T WORRY!

A patient should not become so jittery over such a diet that he or she is afraid some particular food is going to do great harm.

That isn't the idea at all. The diet isn't designed to prohibit some item of food that is dangerous; it is to reduce the amount of food that may be irritating, and to reduce the total bulk that must pass through the digestive tract.

So a sufferer of hiatus hernia shouldn't stumble into a "worry cycle." The worry by itself might do as much irritating as some forbidden food.

As to operations for this condition, only in occasional cases are they necessary or advisable.

Most minor cases really warrant no treatment at all. Some deserve modest care with diet and get along better if the patient learns to be calm and placid. In the middle ground are the cases that get along very well indeed if only the patients understand what the trouble is, and will abide by reasonable diet rules.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Which parent determines the color of a child's eyes?—R.C."

Either, or both. Plus the heredity, or ancestry, of both parents. Two blue-eyed parents usually will have a blue-eyed child. But the grandparents, and great-grandparents, have an effect, too. It's possible for two blue-eyed parents to have a brown-eyed child, if there are enough brown eyes somewhere farther back in the family tree. Green, hazel, and grey eyes are intermediate tones. Remember, all white babies' eyes are blue to start with.

"Dear Dr. Molner: We are worried about a brother-in-law who recently underwent an operation for removal of the prostate gland. He had always been very easy-going and good-natured, but is now a changed man. Do you think the operation caused this?—C.S."

Yes and no. The operation didn't do anything that caused this change in temperament. Operations don't. But I'll tell you what I think did cause the change. He's worried! Chances are, of course, that the operation did all that it was expected to do, but he is still worrying about it. And that, most likely, is the whole story of his temporary change in temperament.

Sect Pupils In Classes

KRESTOVA, B.C. (CP) — Sons of Freedom Doukhobor children were returned to school Monday as their parents responded quickly to an ultimatum given by spiritual leader Stefan Sorokin.

Sorokin issued an ultimatum to the repentant parents when he appeared Sunday at a Sons of Freedom rally at Claybrick in the nearby Slocan Valley.

The bearded leader angrily told those present that he would leave the Kootenays and never return if the children were not returned to classes.

Trustee Takes Issue

Kin of Teachers No Peril to Board

A spokesman for Greater Victoria school board last night took issue with a candidate's statements that a danger exists in close relatives or spouses of teachers becoming trustees.

R. B. Hilton, one of three candidates seeking the Saanich seat as trustee for School District 61, said yesterday "the electorate doesn't really go for the situation in which we now have a board member whose wife teaches school in this district."

He said the election of Ralph Fryer by acclamation in Victoria could lead to a "direct pipeline" between the board and the teachers it employed, which at salary negotiation time might harm either or both groups.

OTHER SPHERES

W. C. Gelling, chairman of the local school board, said every trustee was involved in another sphere of community life. He added that no member of the present board is closely related to a teacher.

"I personally can see no reason why the wives or husbands of trustees shouldn't be teachers," said Mr. Gelling. "I don't think any trustee would take advantage of such a situation to the detriment of teachers or that any teacher would do anything to the detriment of the school board."

Mr. Hilton said a "crisis of morals" was foreshadowed by a "late-recent amendment to the Public Schools Act" which allowed spouses of teachers to stand for election as trustees. He said the department of education itself was able to appoint spouses of teachers as members of school boards.

where no candidates seek election.

"The answer partly lies in overcoming public apathy so that every seat is contested at each election," said Mr. Hilton.

Impaired Drivers Fined $250

Two men were fined $250 each, and had their driver's licences suspended, when they pleaded guilty in police courts yesterday to impaired driving. One was Donald Edward Smitz, 99 Sooke, who appeared in Saanich court, where it was reported his car collided with a second driven by William Vincent Metcalf, 560 Rithet, at Trans-Canada and Burnside, Saturday night.

The other, Peter Greenstreet, 543 Manchester, appeared in city court after being checked at 3 a.m. Monday at Government and Chatham.

Woman Saved Fire Quelled

One woman was helped to safety but damage was light when fire struck a four-apartment building at 218 Oswego Sunday at 11:42 a.m.

Firemen assisted elderly Mrs. A. Clarke from the smoke-filled building before quelling the blaze, restricted to floor joists beneath the structure.

Leg Broken In Accident

An early-morning accident Sunday sent a woman to hospital with a broken right leg.

Mrs. Phyllis Armstrong, 31, of 3098 Volmer, was injured at 2:30 a.m. when a car driven by her husband, Joseph Armstrong, went off the road at Metchoin and Sooke Roads, hit a gravel bank and a tree.

Damage to the car was estimated at about $400.

White Parents Stoned

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — White attendance reached its highest point in nine days at an integrated school Monday but parents had to run a gauntlet of stone-throwing women when they took their children home.

Irate housewives who have tried to blockade the school seemed disheartened after attendance swelled to 18, counting one negro girl—its highest point since Nov. 16, nine school days ago.

NEW FURY

But they returned with new fury after classes.

When cars began arriving to pick up the children, the irate women began hurling eggs. One shattered a windshield.

Police hurriedly moved the women back, but they went farther down the street and lined up on both sides of the street to wait for other cars.

NOT ACCURATE

When these passed, the women set up a barrage of stones, but were not very accurate.

"One just missed me and that's when I made them move," said a police captain.

Colonialism Debate

U.K. Chided by Ireland in UN Over 'Historic Unity' of Nation

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The United Nations opened debate on Algeria Monday for the sixth consecutive year and heard Tunisia demand that any referendum on the future of the war-torn territory be guaranteed by a UN "presence."

France once again boycotted the debate.

Tunisia's Mongi Slim was the only speaker on Algeria and the 15th UN General Assembly then resumed its debate on colonialism, hearing some polite but pointed remarks by Ireland regarding the "historic unity of our national territory."

WISE STATESMANSHIP

Irish Foreign Minister Frank Aiken said that freedom had been greatly widened in recent times not only through the efforts of former subject peoples but "often through the wise and realistic statesmanship of the colonial powers."

Speaking directly to Assembly President Frederick Boland, also an Irishman, Aiken declared:

"What Irishman, Mr. President, would have believed 40 years ago that he would live to hear a British statesman proclaim in relation to all the remaining territories under British administration the words uttered here a few days ago by the distinguished representative of Great Britain, Mr. David Ormsby-Gore?"

RECOVER UNITY

Aiken referred, however, to Northern Ireland, part of Great Britain:

"In Ireland we have to recover the historic unity of our national territory."

Aiken referred to efforts by Soviet Premier Khrushchev and other Communist speakers to blacken only the West with charges of colonial oppression when he said the colonialism resolution should be universal.

Lead the Neutrals

Pauling Sees Canada's Role

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada should become a neutral nation, says Nobel prize-winning scientist Dr. Linus C. Pauling.

"How can the cancer of war be eradicated?" he asked 3,000 persons who jammed the Orpheum Theatre here Sunday night to hear him.

"Not by a divided world," he said. "We have to develop the idea of neutrality, a world of independent nations."

GREAT ROLE

"Canada could play a great role as leader of the neutral world; I hope Canada will not become a minor H-bomb power but instead will lead the world to sanity."

Dr. Pauling, a 59-year-old chemist, idealist and humanitarian who won the Nobel Prize for chemistry in 1954, led 11,000 world scientists in a petition to the United Nations to ban the A-bomb in 1958. He came here to speak under auspices of the B.C. Committee on Radiation Hazards.

In his address to an overflow crowd, he made these points:

A third world war will never start; the world will not be destroyed; a "clean" nuclear bomb does not exist; Communist China should be admitted to the United Nations; fallout shelters are useless; radio-active fallout from bomb tests already conducted will have harmful effects on 1,250,000 children in future generations; church leaders are timid in speaking out against war.

Dr. Pauling said Red China should be admitted to the United Nations and should sign an international agreement banning the testing of nuclear bombs and any disarmament agreements.

FORCED TO GIVE UP

"Nations are being forced to give up war. The only alternative is to develop international law and settle disputes between nations with a maximum of justice."

He said a nuclear war would destroy the world without a doubt. It would take 2,000 to 3,000 bombs of 20-megaton size to kill everyone in the world and the United States now had 115,000 and Russia an estimated 60,000.

Dr. Pauling said he opposes spending money on fallout shelter construction. "Civil defence is a cruel deception of the American people," he said. "There is a campaign going on now to convince the people the U.S. could survive a war."

"If we want to save lives we should put our time and effort and money into preventing a nuclear war and not to building shelters."

The Nub of the Problem

THE highly respected Mr. Adlai Stevenson, who is likely to hold office or wield a measure of influence in the new Kennedy administration, has cited Canadian-American relations as among the urgent problems to be dealt with. There are other factors in the liaison of the two nations but Mr. Stevenson had particular reference to the question of neutrality in the cold war.

Neutrality is a role which Canada cannot afford, said Mr. Stevenson, and in the sense of refusing to take sides as between the U.S.A. and Soviet Russia such a role is not contemplated. Canada is a true ally, an integral part in fact, of the Western alliance.

Neutrality is of varying nature, however, nor does it necessarily mean throwing up the sponge as the antithesis of going along with the U.S. in every facet of the latter's policy. In the matter of nuclear weapons, for instance, Canada would like very much to be neutral—even to the extent of wishing a plague on all atomic production for militant purposes. That does not belie its attachment to the Western cause or its determination to do its full share in the common defence.

Mr. Stevenson suggests there can be no neutrality when the choice is between ways of living and ways of dying, but surely the ways of living are more important. If these are properly contained the other choice may be obviated. That is why Mr.

Howard Green is pursuing with credit the argument that the lesser powers should have a chance to influence the nuclear nations.

His program is not to the liking of Soviet Russia and one suspects the U.S. is none too happy about it either. This may have been at the bottom of Mr. Stevenson's remarks about neutrality. American foreign policy to date, although it may undergo a change with the advent of a new president, has been to paint the cold war in two stark and opposing colors. The implication has always been that a nation is either with the U.S.A. or against it. International relations are never so clear-cut as that; every nation has nuances of opinion which reflect its own primary interests, and chief among these is a desire not to be caught helplessly between two giant nuclear protagonists.

Canada cannot be indicted if the latter prospect is disturbing, or if this situation provokes it to try and create an intervening factor that might lessen the tension now wrapped around the world like an octopus. The octopus indeed is the nuclear bomb. Canada will never be neutral in the sense that she goes back on her obligations or ceases to be a wholehearted supporter of the Western alliance, but she has some sovereign right to express her views concerning the operations of that alliance. That perhaps is the nub of the problem in this aspect of Canadian-American relations.

'Sunday Driver' Nuisance

ON THE Patricia Bay Highway the problem of the "Sunday driver" has assumed greater proportions than ever before. Until 18 months ago it was only airport traffic that could be seriously inconvenienced, but now that the highway is the route to the provincial ferries, with northbound departures at two-hour intervals, any impediment to the normal flow of traffic causes something a lot worse than annoyance and inconvenience.

On an arterial highway with only a single lane in each direction enforcing the law against obstructive driving is far more important than it may be elsewhere. Travellers with ferry connections to make 20 miles away cannot do so if dawdling sight-seers, alternately slowing down and speeding up, are in front of them.

On much of the peninsula highway the speed limit has been raised to either 50 or 60 miles an hour for the purpose of facilitating traffic to the airport and ferry terminus. It is a waste of money building highways fit for such speeds if commuting vehicles are held down to the 30-mile-an-hour speed of those with nowhere particular to go. On a four-lane highway this would not matter, but on a two-lane artery it largely undoes the good work of the provincial highways department.

Passing a long string of vehicles, probably held back by a single crawler up front, can be very dangerous, and is a major cause of serious accidents. On most sections of the Patricia Bay Highway the shoulders are wide and smooth enough for slow vehicles to pull aside, but few drivers will do that unless compelled to.

Until something is done to reconstruct this route to a safe width the police highway patrols should be a lot more strict in enforcing the law, especially on Sundays when hundreds of vehicles are trying to catch the ferries.

Leave It to the SPCA

IF THE Saanich dog pound is as bad as the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals says it is, some action to improve conditions should be taken without delay. With winter approaching and the nights already cold, the dog-catcher's collections should be housed in a reasonable degree of comfort.

Modern society no longer tolerates unkindness or lack of consideration for animals, and when it is a public service which is at fault corrective action should be all the faster.

People who like dogs—and this district is full of them—do not care to think even of strays suffering unnecessarily. After all, when a dog becomes a stray it is not the dog's fault and it should not be treated unkindly simply because it has become a nuisance. That is the fault of the human owner. When the pound has to resort to extermination, the equipment used should be humane; and the makeshift contraption used at the Saanich pound does not appear to pass the test.

Experience elsewhere has shown that an exchange of duties and revenues with the SPCA works very well, and those municipalities which have adopted that plan would not go back on it. The SPCA is fully experienced in that kind of work, knows exactly what is required in the way of accommodation, equipment feeding and general care of animals until they are reclaimed, found other homes or put away. When a pound is run by the SPCA complaints are never heard about the way it is operated; and owners of animals which have strayed or been lost know they will be well looked after there.

The SPCA's offer to Saanich council to handle a pound for Saanich strays apparently remains open, and the council would be well advised to resume negotiations.

Interpreting the News

Tito Defies Moscow

By PHIL NEWSOM, UPI Foreign News Analyst

JOSIP Broz Tito, whose defiance of Josef Stalin made "Titoism" a dirty word in international communism, once again has invited the wrath of Moscow and Peiping.

Marshal Tito has announced that, effective in 1962, a new constitution would reduce the role of the state and give more power to the worker.

The new constitution, he said, would recognize that "the citizen has the undeniable right to work and acquire an equivalent for his work."

The announcement made Tito no less a communist than Nikita Khrushchev or Mao Tse-tung—but it was sure to draw the anger of both Moscow and Peiping.

In the communist lexicon, Tito is a "revisionist," which means that on his own road to socialism he departs from the sacred teachings of Marx and Lenin.

Tito thus defies Moscow to declare that the state can begin to "with away" even as a strong socialist nation is being built. The Moscow theory is that a perfect stateless, classless society can be achieved only through a period of transition beginning with a "dictatorship of the proletariat" in a strong central government.

Further heresy is Tito's statement that the individual has the right to "acquire an equivalent for his work." This smacks of private enterprise, a condition of which only remnants remain in Soviet Russia or Red China.

Aside from artists and authors who may collect individual rewards, the last private businessmen in the Soviet Union are the peasants. From the small plot of land which surrounds each of their homes they can harvest and sell the fruits for whatever they can get.

That is a modest concession to the ruggedly individual peasants who have been the toughest of all to convert to communism.

Tito also has proved himself a rugged individual.

This week he could boast that annual average income per capita nearly has quadrupled since before World War II.

Thinking Aloud

Gerald Waring

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

CARLYLE said that no one who ever laughed heartily could ever be really bad, although that is a unanimous judgment. A rascal could have a perverted sense of humor that would give him the stitches.

Or, even, a genuine funny bone he didn't deserve.

I suppose Carlyle would mean, though, that laughter belonged to the good side of life. Perhaps he was envious, for I have always associated the sage of Chelsea with a sober face.

And that could be to do him wrong, for a man's face shouldn't necessarily be held against him. Only the other night at a dance yours truly was asked why the gloom, and all the while he was like a tank inside.

A folklore specialist said a while back that Kilroy would live when Hitler's name had followed him to the grave. Kilroy has almost disappeared from reference and he won't get into the history books whereas, unfortunately, Hitler will. But the idea would be that Kilroy touched the chords of whimsy and Der Fuhrer the chords of fear.

Come to think of it I never saw a picture of Hitler laughing; doing a jig, yes, in Paris, but he was certainly no cheerful sight.

Sinbad the Sailor has also been cited as belonging to the school of cheer that lives on. By contrast that real and famous sailor, Magellan, has been forgotten. One couldn't conclude from this, of course, that Magellan had done something bad, unless perhaps when seaskiff in the middle of the ocean he named.

And that would be merely the matter of a misnomer.

Sinbad lives on because he titillates the spirit, like Jack of the Beanstalk, or Little Red Riding Hood, or let us add, Santa Claus. Allowing, that is, that television hasn't pushed them aside for gunsmokers and the like.

But if small folk don't chuckle when they hear about Sinbad or Jack they will when they grow up.

That is why folklore is warm, friendly, deeply treasured. It deals in pleasant memories. Even the villains acquire a kind of charm, especially if they are not rudely gloomy. Folklore is kin to the laughter happily inherent in most of us.

And he is a curmudgeon who would wipe it out because, he says, with a cold smileless logic, it is fanciful.

For all of man's occasional grumpiness his chief attraction, I think, lies in the smile that breaks out so easily. A smile is the front door to laughter, the threshold of inward gaiety. And how attractive it is.

Yes, even when two giggling girls get together and upset the atmosphere, and you anxious to say something you think is important. They merely mistime their moment, as Charles Lamb did when he misbehaved at a funeral. This was because, he said, awful things made him laugh.

His sense of humor, perhaps, was not in his funny bone.

None of us goes through a single day, I fancy, without smiling to someone or without being greeted by a smile. And how that soothes the spirit and warms the heart. Imagine the opposite and you'll doubly relish the family of laughter.

I have often thought it a pity that Christ was not reported as having smiled, for he must have done so often and especially when he called out Him the little children.

For a smile, in addition to all else, can be the outward expression of love.

"I don't know about you, but I've never been higher"

Reports from Ottawa

Gerald Waring

THE Royal Commission on Transportation has heard with horror that it must have its report in the hands of the government by March 31.

The dictum came from Prime Minister Diefenbaker—apparently to enable him to ask railways unions to postpone their strike pending the panacea the commission is under orders to produce. The unions refused. The government then banned a strike before May 15 by act of Parliament, but the final solution of the railway wage impasse is still officially hanging on the report of the MacPherson commission.

That report has been under preparation for a year now, being written piecemeal, with each section drafted in an open-ended manner to permit continual revision in light of concurrent commission hearings and research projects. The final arguments—written briefs—are due to be received from the interested parties, mainly the railways, by Feb. 10.

The March 31 deadline means the report must be put together in a hectic rush. This is scarcely in keeping with the far-reaching importance of recommendations that are expected to outline a new national transportation policy for the government to implement. The royal commission is not concerned with immediate, short-term palliatives, but with the solution of fundamental problems. By involving it in the present wage dispute, the government is merely buying time. The drafting of policy to shape the nation's transportation system for a generation or more is a far cry from coming up with an answer as to how the railways are going to pay their workers an extra 14 cents an hour by May 15.

The railways' tough competitive situation is the No. 1 problem facing the CNR, CPR and the royal commission. It is one of the reasons the railways have been laying off employees.

Thus to expect a rate increase to enable the railways to pay an extra 14 cents an hour as of May 1, half of it retroactive to last Sept. 1 and some of it to last Jan. 1, seems a dubious proposition.

But in any case the strike that had to be stopped has at least been postponed until spring. If business conditions and railway car loadings improve markedly in the next six months, the problem could solve itself. That may be the main hope behind the government's time-buying.

Beautifying Victoria

Signs of Progress

Recently in this space was published a short article critical of certain sections of the new city sign bylaw. Here is the sign industry's reply:

By W. T. FRASER

NEARLY 10 months have elapsed since the planning committee of the City of Victoria began the difficult task of framing a new sign bylaw that would be in keeping with the town planning program for future city development, and at the same time would recognize the need of the businessman to advertise his product and his premises in an effective manner.

The fact that a series of drafts and amendments to these drafts were required before the proposed bylaw was brought to council only testifies to the sincere and conscientious consideration given to this problem by members of the public works committee and the planning committee.

Much has been said and more written in comparing the amended fourth draft to the fourth draft, the fourth to the third, and so on, but if we wish to determine whether or not the new sign bylaw is progressive it would seem more reasonable to compare the provisions of the proposed bylaw with those of the existing bylaw. Such a comparison would serve to show whether the city would be "thrown to the wolves" as alleged by one citizen, or whether the regulation have actually been tightened in the interests of city beautification. Let us look then at some of the provisions of the new bylaw as they compare with existing regulations.

With reference to the billboards and bulletins existing in the City of Victoria, these will be eliminated from the residential area, the increased special area, the roof-tops in the downtown area, and greatly restricted on roof-tops in other areas. The overall effect of these changes in the bylaw will eliminate 70 to 80 billboards in the city.

The new bylaw would relax regulations on two types of signs in certain areas—facia signs in the downtown area only, and canopy signs, but would add 21 new restrictions on all other signs.

It can be seen from this comparison that the new bylaw will in fact reduce all the types of signs either in area or in number in all zones, and, contrary to opinions expressed, will not provide for an increase in the number and size of signs in the City of Victoria.

Ten-Year Plan

NATO Looks Ahead

By ELISABETH BARKER,
from London

THE 15 members of the Atlantic Alliance have begun to prepare for their meeting of ministers in Paris this month. Every year, at this December meeting, NATO ministers discuss a very wide range of problems—from political issues such as the division of Germany, the threat to Berlin and possibilities of negotiating with Soviet Russia, to strategic issues such as the arming of NATO forces with new weapons.

They also discuss ways of organizing even closer political co-ordination among the member countries. This year, also, they are bound to the United States proposal put forward last December: that NATO should plan systematically for the next ten years of its life and activity, in all fields.

Already, in its 11 years of existence, NATO has developed a powerful vitality of its own. All 15 members remain independent sovereign states: some, for instance, like Norway and Turkey, are widely separated both by geography and by past history.

There are still sometimes private disputes between members—as between Iceland and Britain over fishery limits. There are wider differences over questions of NATO policy, such as General de Gaulle's opposition to military integration. Yet NATO has so much become a vital part of the national policy of each member country that not one of them could abandon it without grave loss and danger.

This is true even of its strongest member, the United States. This December, the NATO council will have to say a goodbye to Mr. Eisenhower, who has done so much for the alliance, first as its supreme commander in Europe and then as president of the United States. No one doubts, however, that the new president, Mr. Kennedy, will support NATO just as firmly, not only as effective defence against Soviet expansion, but also as a powerful link between the United States and Europe.

The change-over in the United States may mean that at this meeting NATO ministers will not try to take final decisions on certain big issues, such as the equipment of NATO with Polaris missiles. However, these things can be discussed and the way cleared for later decisions after the new U.S. government has thought things over.

Already the vice-president elect, Senator Lyndon Johnson, has been studying NATO problems and opinions, at a meeting in Paris of NATO parliamentarians. There he was able to make contact with politicians from every NATO country. He heard the supreme commander, General Norstad, put forward his own views about the need for modernizing NATO's weapons by introducing land-based or sea-based medium range missiles, and for creating a NATO pool of atomic weapons in such a way that each member would have a say in deciding their use.

Whatever conclusions the United States government may reach, and whatever decision NATO may ultimately make on these complex questions, the alliance will remain an effective and strong defence organization. From the beginning, this organization has been based on integration—the closest practicable integration of commands, whether of land forces in Europe, or of naval forces, or of the air defences of Western Europe.

It has also consistently aimed at progressive standardization of weapons of all types. It has built up an inter-connected system of communications, including ports, airfields and storage depots, to serve the alliance as a whole.

There are two important reasons for integration. One is that the 15 nations, by pooling their resources in manpower, weapons and money, can achieve maximum military effectiveness with the minimum of economic strain. In NATO, each country's defence contribution is always closely related to its economic capacity: for if NATO were to make such demands of a member as to inflict economic or social damage, the alliance would defeat its own aims.

The other motive for integration is a simple military one. Given the speed and weapons of modern warfare, it is impossible to defend Western Europe by separate national forces under separate national commands. Speed in meeting aggression, and the power to concentrate all necessary forces at a threatened area, are essential; both require integration.

In the political field, NATO has neither desired nor attempted integration. Yet it has given Europe a sense of security which has helped six of its members to move towards political integration. Moreover, within NATO itself there is constant political consultation, both in the permanent council and at the periodic ministerial meetings. Nowadays, this consultation covers not only problems arising within the NATO area, but also problems arising anywhere in the world which NATO countries, severally or collectively, can help to solve. NATO is becoming a force for preventing aggression and a force for strengthening world peace.

'Right' to Strike

The CPR is the very best all-round railway I have found on this continent. Some U.S. systems may have better dining cars and service therein but the CPR, as well as all-round best service, runs over the best trans-continental route in the world—most varied and wonderful in each aspect. I enjoy the trip east or west and would always use it rather than the best jet service, also wonderful.

The missing link is now between Vancouver and Victoria. The old boat trip by day or night was good but faded. But it seems today that no service to the general public is safe from "today's highwaymen" who for the sake of their own smugness and the entire country's traffic, "right to strike" would upset the entire country's traffic. Surely this so-called "right" has often enough proved that it is utterly bad. No one gains but the few labor bosses who enjoy power. It is surely time to change the possibility of such dislocation for anyone's personal reasons. It is incongruous at a time when many seek jobs that those who have such are willing to throw them up for loss in the long run. However, Mr. Diefenbaker prevented this; he should be praised for so doing.

The opposition sound pretty lame. There is a way these difficulties could be eased and eventually should not occur. The evil lies in other places and responsibilities. These are not now mentioned but they will be broadcast and gobbled up by millions now deceived.

(MRS.) A. C. BOYDELL.

Brave, Sane Action

A great sigh of relief was released from coast to coast on hearing that the threatened strike on the Canadian railways had been, for the time being at least, averted. Many observers have commented that Prime Minister Diefenbaker acted courageously in intervening, but that in doing so he was committing political suicide, but this observer does not agree with this conclusion.

The prime minister will gain many friends by his brave and sane action, amongst whom will be a great number of the railway and allied workers themselves, who, probably, breathed the deepest sigh of relief of all on finding that they were not increasing, and themselves being added to, the already serious number of unemployed.

'Honorable Wound'

The sign industry spokesman hopes that I will not be elected alderman on Thursday, and I accept their open hostility as an honorable wound. Victoria will be a better place with fewer billboards, and if that means less business for some of their members I am sorry that this improvement means a sacrifice to anyone.

Their spokesman mentions a voluntary agreement amongst themselves to reduce the number of billboards to a more digestible number. Those agreements are worth exactly nothing. A Vancouver head-office expects every vacant lot in this city and every roof and every brick wall allowed by law to be covered with the most striking advertising that Toronto and Montreal can devise. A Victoria billboard manager must achieve this end, or Vancouver will replace him by a more aggressive man who can read a bylaw.

I can put up with the industry hostility but I cringe when I hear any Victoria man find a kind word to say about these blatant intrusions by out-of-town interests upon our fair city. Victoria home-owners are actually fighting for the very titles to their own homes today because of the expensive inroads of thousands who find our city a handy convenience. Not all of us realize this, but there is no other interpretation to the facts piling up around the city hall today.

It is time home-owners had a voice downtown too.
CHARLES M. NELLES.

Kiwanis Villa

The directors of Kiwanis Village would like me to express sincere appreciation to the citizens of Greater Victoria for their support in the Dec. 1 campaign. The reception was tremendous and we will lose no time in using the money to help build the villa.

When the present phase of construction is complete the total investment at the village will be almost $750,000. The provincial government will have invested approximately one-third of this cost, the balance being contributed by the citizens of Greater Victoria. As a result we can expect another 52 deserving elderly citizens will reside in the villa approximately nine months from today.

May I also take this opportunity to publicly thank the canvassers who called on the homes in this area; the individual groups who worked as a team, including the nurses from the Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals, the Victoria Girls' Drill Team, the Oak Bay and Victoria North Kiwanis Clubs, the CGIT groups, members of the Victoria Labor Council, members of other service clubs and people from all other walks of life. It was a real community effort for a great community project.

We thank the press, radio and TV stations for their excellent news coverage and support. We feel that they went out of their way to give pre-eminence to this project as both a winter works program and a necessary housing for our deserving elderly citizens.

R. N. E. HARRIS, President.
Kiwanis Village Society.

Well-Read Colonist

I would like to take this opportunity to say how much I enjoy reading my home town paper, especially the local news section. Although most of the names are unfamiliar to me now, it still makes me feel that I am still part of Victoria. There are five other families on the station whom I pass my copy on to, so you see it is really well read.

Due to the fact that we are continually moving around and I have lost contact with school friends and others, I would appreciate it if you could find space in the paper to print this letter as I would really enjoy hearing from them, and I will answer any letters which I receive.

Time for New Blood

I must protest Mr. Dowell's running for alderman when he knows he will be away such a long time. The pressure group should have been told he cannot attend to the city's business while on a five- or six-month vacation with or without pay. Somehow they should have put a stop to this sort of thing.

To me it was an insult to the intelligence of the voters and taxpayers who carry the load. Also proves that the clique needs breaking up and some new brains working in city hall from top to bottom.

... rivalry à luxuryKennedy Advised on Defence*Chop and Merge

WASHINGTON (AP)—A tightly-controlled defence force, dispensing with army, navy and air force secretaries and emphasizing speedy military decisions, was proposed to President-elect Kennedy by his defence advisers Monday.

The three armed services would continue to be separate units under the plan produced, at Kennedy's request, by a committee headed by Senator Stuart Symington, Democrat of Missouri.

Symington Urges End To 22 Posts

But the committee frankly recommended reducing the influence of the separate services. It said the country can no longer "afford the luxury of letting each service strive to develop in itself the capability of fighting any future war by itself" and that inter-service rivalry is steadily increasing.

Symington, a former secretary of the air force, said the plan recognizes "the nuclear space age instead of continuing to have this arbitrary and ridiculous division between land, sea and air."

Symington said the committee's recommendations could save 20 per cent of the present defence budget, or $8,000,000,000, but this amount probably would have to be invested in new weapons and arms control.

Each service would continue to have its own chief but the chiefs and chairmen would no longer constitute the joint chiefs of staff.

Bobbing Rate to Banks Draws Another Critic

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

G. Arnold Hart, president of the Bank of Montreal, Canada's oldest and most conservative chartered bank, has joined the swelling list of critics of Canada's central monetary authorities.

At the Bank of Montreal annual general meeting yesterday Mr. Hart did not mention Governor James Coyne of the Bank of Canada by name, but he left shareholders with the impression that he was not at all happy with the current policy of the Bank of Canada and its advisers.

His main points of criticism were the methods used by the Bank of Canada (1) to regulate the money supply and (2) to compute the Bank of Canada discount rate.

CURIOUS METHOD

He called the method used to find the weekly discount rate a "curious" one, and declared it was time for a change of system.

"In other money markets a change in the discount rate is rightly regarded as a matter of the highest significance," said Mr. Hart. "It traditionally represents a means by which the central bank indicates to the market its views as to whether credit should become more stringent or more plentiful."

He explained that since November, 1956, the Bank of Canada

G. Arnold Hart, President of the Bank of Montreal.

New Vice-President

General manager of the Bank of Montreal, R. D. Mulholland, manager of the bank's main Victoria branch from 1948 to 1951, was elected a vice-president of the bank, following its annual meeting in Montreal yesterday. He remains as general manager.

BOBS LIKE CORK

"What in other money markets is a major monetary indicator, that is changed infrequently and only in the light of official reappraisal of fundamental conditions, is in Canada like a cork that bobs around from week to week," said Mr. Hart.

"I would submit with all the force at my command that the time is now more ripe for a re-assessment by the Bank of Canada of more direct responsibility for the forces stemming from its alteration."

On the question of money supply, which for the past few years has been a major bone of contention among the chartered bankers, Mr. Hart said that a restrictive credit policy designed to offset the consequences of excessive creation of debt can go far beyond the salutary checking of a boom to become a deterrent to normal growth.

INCREASE BORROWING

Asking for greater flexibility of policy on the amount of money needed in Canada to meet its growing economy, Mr. Hart indicated clearly to Mr. Coyne and the Bank of Canada that what the central bank should be worrying about today was ways and means of creating the conditions that will lead to an increase in bank borrowing rather than the reverse.

The complaints lodged by Mr. Hart and other leading Canadian bankers must have convinced the government there is something very far wrong with the relations between the government and commercial banks, and that something should be done about it.

BREWERIES MAKE MORE

Western Canada Breweries Ltd. made a net profit of $2,000,289 ($2.42 a share) in the fiscal year ended Oct. 31. In the previous year the company made $1,752,569 ($2.12 a share).

Capital expenditures during the year of $2,400,000 had been met out of retained earnings, and further capital expenditures of $2,300,000 in the current year would also come out of working capital, Ian R. Dowie, president, told shareholders.

WALLACE B. HAUGHAN

ELECTION of Vancouver businessman Wallace B. Haughan to the Board of Directors, Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd., is announced.

Mr. Haughan is chairman and president of John Laing & Son (Canada) Limited. He has been associated with John Laing & Son Limited for 40 years. Mr. Haughan is also chairman and president of the Laing Equipment Company Limited, chairman and president of Forward Installations Limited, chairman, Grosvenor-Laing (B.C.) Limited, and a director of Peace River Power Development Company Limited.

Kremlin Wins China Support On Co-Existence

MOSCOW (UPI)—Nikita Khrushchev's "peaceful co-existence" theory became the official party line for all world communism, including Red China, in a Communist war and peace manifesto published yesterday.

The Communists branded the United States as "the main force of aggression and war" and predicted the eventual mastery of the Communist system, which, the manifesto said, now has 87 parties in the world, and a card-carrying membership that "exceeds 36,000,000."

The 20,000-word manifesto was hammered out at a three-week secret Kremlin meeting of chiefs from 81 Red parties and published in the Soviet party newspaper Pravda. It said Russia will become the world's greatest industrial power and China will be a "mighty industrial state."

DISPUTE UNMENTIONED
It made no mention of the ideological dispute that arose over the Khrushchev theory and the Red Chinese argument that war with the West is inevitable.

"Peaceful co-existence of countries with different systems or destructive war—this is the alternative. There is no choice," the manifesto said. But it left implicit the Communist line that co-existence is merely a strategy which discounts war because the downfall of capitalism is taken for granted.

Furthermore, the manifesto, published in condensed form in the London Daily Worker, said each Communist party may shape policy to suit its own needs.

TOKYO (UPI)—Japan's parliament adjourned yesterday without reinstating Hayato Ikeda as premier, leaving the nation technically without a head of government.

Ikeda and his cabinet resigned yesterday, believing he would be re-elected to the premiership shortly afterward by the lower House.

A new Speaker had to be chosen, but Ikeda's choice, former minister of trade and industry Mitsuhiro Ishii, refused to take the post because Ikeda denied him the power to name a cabinet member.

Empty Jet Kills Mother, Son

STRASBOURG, France (CP)—A mother and her four-year-old son were killed Monday when an RCAF Sabre jet fighter, out of control, plunged from seven miles up and crashed into their home.

The pilot of the plane, unable to bring it back under control, parachuted to safety.

FO Harry Schoning, 23, of Alix, Alta., landed 35 miles from the crash scene. Several houses in this village were set afire as the plane plowed into the ground.

One wing sliced off the roof of a silo in which seven men were working. None was hurt. The fuselage crashed into the house of farmer Albert Mees and burst into flames. Mees' wife Hilda, 36, and son Albert died. The house was collapsed by the impact.

Now Shell makes special gasolines for the West Coast—to prevent stalling even on the dampest days

In West Coast Winters, dampness is a major cause of engine stalling. Read how moisture turns to ice in your carburetor even on mild days! And how Shell's Winter gasolines are specially fortified to prevent stalling even in the dampest weather.

ORDINARY WINTER gasolines often fail to keep engines from stalling here on the West Coast of Canada.

These same gasolines work well enough in really cold climates. But during our mild Winters, dampness is a major reason engines stall.

Ice at fifty degrees

Here's what happens when you start your car. As soon as your engine turns over, the temperature inside your carburetor can drop as much as thirty degrees!

You can see what that means. Even if it's a mild fifty degrees outside, it's below freezing in your carburetor. As your freezing-cold carburetor gulps damp air from outside, the moisture in the air turns to ice. And your car stalls.

Shell's West Coast gasolines

When you fill up at any Shell service station on the West Coast of Canada, you get gasoline made specially for driving in our damp, Winter weather.

At Shellburn refinery, a special anti-stalling ingredient is added to the Winter gasolines. The name of this ingredient is Shell's Additive 182. It wins the battle by joining forces with the enemy. As soon as moisture gets into your carburetor, Additive 182 mixes with it to prevent it from freezing.

And there's enough Additive 182 in Shell gasolines to protect you against stalling even when the relative humidity is 100 per cent.

Quick starts

All year round, Shell is primed with Butane, to give quick-starts. Butane is so eager to get started that it will actually vaporize by itself unless stored under pressure at the refinery.

Shell's special West Coast gasolines stop moisture in the air from turning to ice in your carburetor.

In Winter, Shell increases the dose of Butane. Think what this means on a chilly morning. Your engine fires in seconds. And a big strain is taken off your battery.

At Shellburn, still another ingredient is added to Shell Gasolines to give you quick warm-ups.

Its name is Iso-pentane. It is made by tearing gasoline apart, at the refinery, much as you split kindling to start a log fire.

In this case, the "logs" are petroleum's heavier hydrocarbons. These hydrocarbons are actually split up, and their heavy molecules are transformed from slow-burning "logs" to quick-firing "kindling."

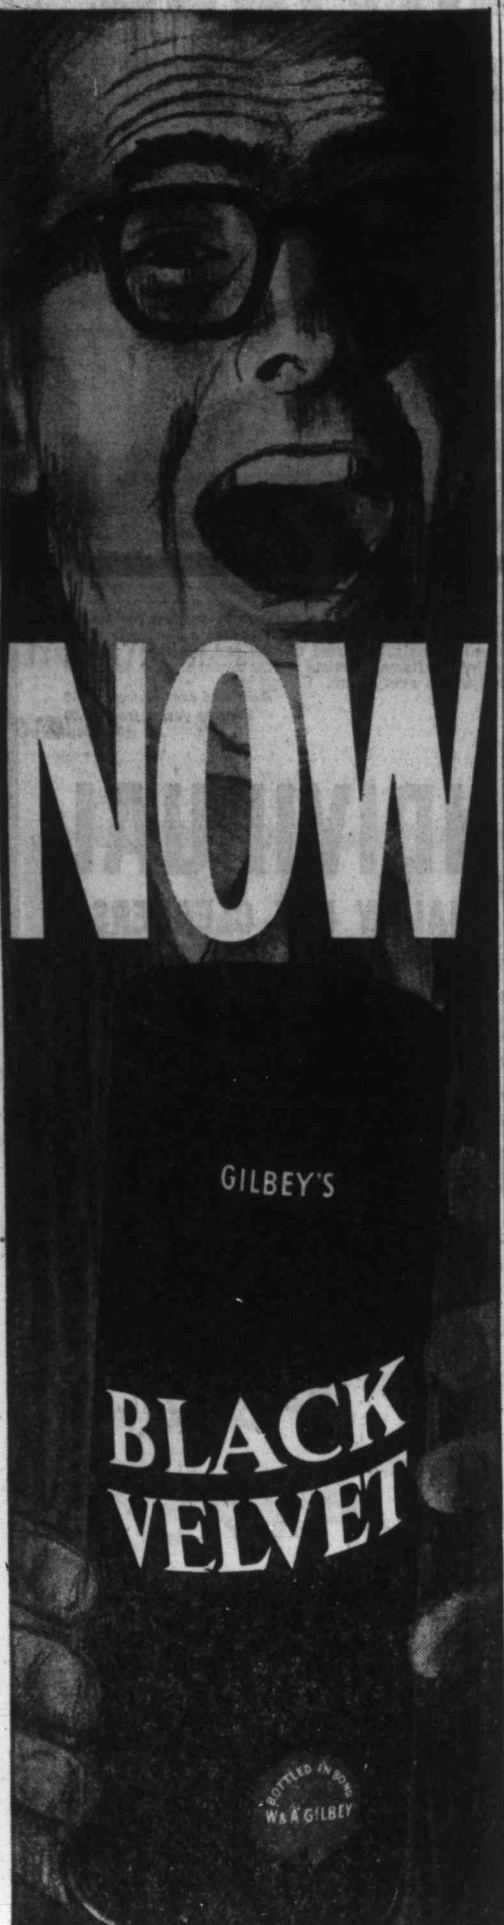

The result is that your engine warms up quickly to give you top performance fast.

Test West Coast Shell yourself

Next time you fill up, why not try one of Shell's exclusive West Coast gasolines? You will be well protected against driving troubles caused by our damp, chilly Winter weather. You will get the same top performance that Shell always give you, no matter what the season.

Stanleyville Cut Off

Mobutu Surrounds Lumumba Stronghold

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — only a United Nations plea to avoid bloodshed, stayed him Monday his forces have surrounded Stanleyville, stronghold of ex-premier Patrice Lumumba's lieutenants. Mobutu warned, however, Col. Joseph Mobutu said that his soldiers will strike at the city if either the United Arab Republic or Sudan try to send arms to Stanleyville. He also threatened to cut off two tributaries of the River Nile in the Congo, vital to both the U.A.R. and Sudan.

Mobutu ordered the U.A.R. diplomatic mission out of the Congo last week, charging it was trying to restore Lumumba to power. Sudan works closely with the U.A.R.

A triumvirate of former deputy premier Antoine Gizenga, Lumumba's younger brother Louis, and Bernard Salumu, a former Lumumba secretary, rules Stanleyville. Mobutu charged the U.A.R. and Sudan reached a secret agreement recently to give all possible aid to the Stanleyville triumvirate.

Mobutu said Lumumba will be held in confinement as long as anti-Lumumba politicians remain imprisoned in Stanleyville.

Lumumba's Release Demanded

MOSCOW (UPI) — Russia yesterday demanded an "urgent" United Nations discussion of the Congo crisis and the immediate release of jailed ex-premier Patrice Lumumba. The disarming of strongman Col. Joseph Mobutu's forces in Leopoldville also was demanded.

An official Tass news agency statement said the Soviet Union also urged establishment of a special commission composed of representatives of African states to "investigate the sources of financing of the (Mobutu) rebels."

The statement charged "flagrant interference" in the Congo "by the present U.S. government" and called for the expulsion of all Belgians from the troubled African country.

Relations Severed

Ghana Ousts Belgians

ACCRA, Ghana (Reuters) — Belgium Monday was under a diplomatic barrage as Ghana severed relations and gave the Belgian ambassador until midnight today to clear out of the country.

At the same time in Cairo, the United Arab Republic rejected a Belgian oral protest against the nationalization of Belgian assets in Egypt last Thursday.

Both moves grew out of the tangled political situation in the Congo republic.

ADMITS FAILURE

The Belgian foreign ministry declared that the developments were "an admission of political failure" by Ghana and the U.A.R.

Ghana's announcement of the rupture claimed the Belgians were "responsible for recent developments in the Congo and for the breakdown in the administration of the legitimate government and parliament of which Mr. Patrice Lumumba is prime minister."

Russia Backed By Venezuela

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — among all UN members as part of the regular UN budget. (UPI) — Venezuela yesterday supported a Soviet proposal for a special fund to cover United Nations expenses in the Congo and suggested a compromise "sanction and compensation" formula "for paying the $10,000,000-a-month bill."

In backing the Soviet position before the General Assembly's budget committee, Venezuelan delegate Antonio Arvizu rejected the United States demand that the costs of the Congo operation be allocated

Canada Won't Bill UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Canada yesterday offered to forego claims of $650,000 against the United Nations for air transport services to the chaotic Congo because of the "UN's severe financial crisis arising from the Congo operation."

Never Won in 335 Races

SAN JUAN (AP)—Jockey Pedro Juan Vinales, 26, rode his 335th mount in 10 years at Puerto Rico's El Coman-gante race track Sunday and lost his 335th race. But he is not discouraged.

"Given the right mount I'll win," he said. Pedro, one of the most popular riders here, has finished second 12 times, been third in 14 races and fourth in 35 others.

"I remember once when I was way out in front," he said after finishing 11th in a 13-horse field Sunday on Gracilla. "But with only a furlong to go my mount tired and I came in sixth."

Sharp Decline in Vancouver

Ontario and Alberta Boost Mutuel Play

By KEN KELLY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Canadians pushed their cash through the betting windows in record amounts, wagering $126,276,421 on horse races in 1960.

However, wagering declined in three of the five provinces with flat racing. And Ontario, where wagering jumped to a record $90,215,665 from $84,862,840 in 1959, more than accounted for the $5,566,839 Canada-wide increase over last year.

There were 436 days of racing, 11 more than last year, on 18 tracks. Figures do not include harness racing.

B.C. DOWN

A cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press showed that while Ontario, with its season unchanged at 196 days, and Alberta set records, there was a severe drop in betting in British Columbia attributed to strikes and unemployment, while Manitoba and Saskatchewan had smaller declines.

But all remained confident of 1961 prospects. Racing next year will include a 42-day meeting at Blue Bonnets in Montreal, the first running races in Quebec since 1954.

The 81-day meeting at Toronto's New Woodbine for the second straight year topped all tracks in wagering with $37,849,966. The two-day meet at Estevan, Sask., was smallest at $2,218.

Alberta, which replaced British Columbia last year in second place, reported wagers of $15,554,380, followed by B.C. at $11,903,588, Manitoba at $7,006,531 and Saskatchewan at $1,696,257.

THE TAKE-OFFS
Provincial governments collected $7,566,304 in taxes which, vary from a high of 12 per cent of total wagers in B.C. to 10 per cent in Manitoba, six per cent in Ontario and five per cent in Saskatchewan and Alberta.

The federal government collected about $631,382 as its fee of one-half of one per cent for supervisory services such as film patrol, photo finish, saliva tests and RCMP surveillance. Prize money totalled $5,851,890, up from $5,534,725 last year.

Accurate attendance figures were unavailable in most provinces where race meetings often are held in conjunction with exhibitions and fairs. But Ontario's tracks reported record attendance of 1,697,075, up 98,632 from last year.

AMERICANS HELPED
New Woodbine's betting record was $2,130,843 higher than last year. Fort Erie, which draws big crowds from Buffalo, N.Y., just across the border, had wagers of $28,741,809 in its 67 racing days, up from $26,520,171.

At Toronto's Old Woodbine betting rose to $23,623,870 from $22,623,625 in 48 racing days.

In Alberta, where there were 11 more racing days this year, meetings were held in Edmonton, Calgary, Millerville and High River, where two races were held each day of the two-day meeting.

Edmonton headed the Alberta list with $9,194,543, wagers in 35 racing days, five more than last year's $8,159,653. Calgary's 36 days, four more than last year, helped push betting there to $6,340,474 from $5,199,369 last year.

Alberta's record total was $2,173,182 higher than the $13,381,198 last year.

WORST IN FIVE YEARS
British Columbia reported its worst wagering year in five years with a drop of $1,503,819 from last year's $13,307,307. Seven tracks operated for 104 racing days, one less than a year ago.

At Lansdowne Park, 10 miles south of Vancouver on Lulu Island, betting dropped to $4,993,694 from $6,120,881 and at Exhibition Park in east-end Vancouver on the Pacific National Exhibition grounds it was down to $5,672,207 from $6,337,181.

BIG SANDOWN GAIN
Unlike the other big B.C. tracks, Sandown Park at Sidney on Vancouver Island, which is considered Victoria's track, had a better year this year due to good weather and a new ferry system from Vancouver almost to the track.

Betting rose 16.34 per cent and attendance 35.34 per cent to give Sandown a record of $354,723 compared with $320,593 last year.

Betting at other B.C. tracks with last year's figures bracketed: Prince George, $5,754 ($6,134); Williams Lake, $68,078 ($81,941); Vernon, $81,072 ($13,654); Dawson Creek, $26,060 ($3,880).

Manitoba's only racing was at Assiniboia Downs, just outside Winnipeg, on 42 racing days, unchanged from last year. Betting dropped $218,456 from $7,224,987 last year despite a one-day betting record of $317,255 set on the final day.

In Saskatchewan, where racing officials say crowds were and betting depend on such factors as crops and availability of farm credit, betting declined $216,993 from last year's $1,913,250, despite an additional racing day at Estevan.

City School Soccer Champs Crowned

Referee Hurt in Collision

Standley Kept Right On Going

shot into first place with a 7-4 victory over Pattersons at Memorial Arena last night.

Only, when the order came to slow, Standley kept right on going, right into the referee and out of the hockey game.

Standley scored four goals and Uhren three. Referee George McPherson called all the team's goals as they of the third period but Standley ran into the referee and was given a match penalty, which carries with it an automatic suspension. McPherson had to retire with an ankle injury.

Independent Athletic Association scored four straight goals in the third period to defeat the stubborn Army club

6-4 in the first game of the doubleheader.

Independents moved into a tie with Pattersons for second place as a result of the victory.

AT THE 19th

With Harry Young

Button-holders George Bigelow and Laurie Carroll went through the mill for the second week in succession before scoring a sensational last-hole triumph over the youthful Uplands partnership of Dick Munn and Bill Wakeham.

Like the first game, which was nip-and-puck all the way, the replay was also keenly waged, only this time Munn and Wakeham took the lead at the first hole, and were in front all the way until George Bigelow squared it at the 17th.

Here Munn exploded his third shot out of a trap to win within inches of the cup, and was conceded a birdie four. Bigelow meantime was 12 feet away from the cup in two and he proceeded to sink the putt for an eagle three and the match was squared for the first time.

The drama closed at the 18th where Bigelow was just short of the green with his second, but holed the uphill chip for a birdie three and the match.

The stars of the match this time were Bigelow (70) and Munn (71). Munn won the first hole with a birdie four, and took the third with a bogey five after all the other players had been out of bounds.

The fourth was halved in birdies, and Bigelow won the seventh in a par three to reduce the holder's deficit to one hole. Munn and Bigelow halved the eighth in birdies and Munn won the ninth in three to put the challengers two up at the turn.

Carroll won the 11th in par to keep the defenders in the running, and the next five were halved in pars, to set the scene for Bigelow's fantastic curtain-dropper.

The winners had a better ball score of 67 and the losers 68. Although defeated the new Wakeham-Munn team gave a magnificent display and probably on any other course than Victoria, which Carroll and Bigelow know so well, they might have won. In any case their future efforts as a button pair will be watched with interest.

Next challengers are Roy Chappell and Ron MacLeod, an all professional pairing entered out of Victoria. Roy is Laurie Carroll's assistant, and Ron is the Jasper pro who plays his winter golf in this area. The match will be played at Colwood, where MacLeod bested Carroll in the Island Open last spring, and the outcome is anybody's guess.

The junior buttons remained on the laps of Al MacLeod and Dick Freeman. The Gorge pair held off the challenge of Vic Derman and Earle Francis, a couple of clubmates, by 2-1, at Victoria Sunday. Next junior challengers are Dick Munn and Bill Hodgson.

Entry form for the Daily Colonist Christmas Tree Trophy will appear in the Wednesday, Dec. 14, issue.

All entries must be forwarded by mail, and as in the past a number of places will be held for Up-Island and other out-of-town players.

The contest this year will be held at Uplands.

Bill Mattick, who used to be a member at Gorge Vale and Colwood has come up with what promises to be Victoria's latest golfing attraction. Bill has laid out a nine-hole pitch and putt course at his farm at Cordova Bay.

Although the greens and fairways were seeded only a few weeks ago Bill reckons to have it in good playing order by early next summer.

We went over the course with Bill and Jack Kennedy on Saturday and although it is still extremely soft, it looked like providing a pleasant test of short game golf, with the holes ranging in length from about 170 to 100 yards.

SHORT CHIPS—George Bigelow and Eddie Gudewill are to play-off for a turkey at Victoria Golf Club. The two finished all square with par in last Saturday's competition. Uplands Golf Club had 68 applicants for the vacant post of secretary to the club, and the screening sub-committee has winnowed the choice down to three. An appointment is expected to be made later this week. Turkey and Christmas cheer will be the prize for members of the Uplands Club taking part in Sunday's mixed foursome competition. Gorge Vale's turkey drive on Sunday has attracted an entry of 110 men and 30 women. Play will start at dawn. Ted Williams and Tom Whitemore have retained the city senior buttons by defeating George Austin and Vaughan Pritchard, four up, at Uplands. Next challengers are George Bell and Bert Nex at Victoria Dec. 8.

Leads Polls

Elected alderman in Ottawa civic elections yesterday, Rough Rider end Bobby Simpson, 30, said he hoped that he wasn't elected just because he was a football player. He got twice as many votes as nearest rival among seven others.

Kickers Shatter Thistles

There was too much kick in the Kickers Sunday for Saanich Thistles. The Saanich club, which had given up only nine goals in its previous nine Victoria and District Football League outings, was crushed, 8-3, by Kickers who shot into sole possession of first place.

Mel Cooper was the big gun in the explosive Kicker attack. He scored six goals, to bring his league-leading total to 24.

Evcoes took over second place as Scottish came up with a goal by Ron Jenkin with five minutes left for a 1-1 tie. Alex Stewart fired the Evcoes goal.

Esquimalt finally got its first points with a 2-1 victory over Ladysmith. Paule Sunde scored both their goals while Danny Carmichael scored for Ladysmith.

Philadelphia Eagles clinched the Eastern division championship Sunday but it was at Baltimore that the National Football League produced the day's biggest news.

There, the Colts and Detroit Lions put on the most amazing finish in a season replete with last-minute decisions. And the result, a stunning 20-15 win for the Lions, helped to leave the Western Conference race in a three-way deadlock with two other clubs still very much alive in the stretch scrap to find an opponent for the Eagles.

The Lions, giving Baltimore quarterback Johnny Unitas the rush all day, started the last 14 seconds with a 13-8 lead. They were ahead by only 10-8 when Jim Martin kicked a 47-yard field goal with 78 seconds left to put Detroit out in front by five points.

Martin's boot, however, forced the Colts to go for a major score, and they got it when Lenny Moore came up with a spectacular diving catch of a pass thrown by Unitas into the Detroit end zone.

It set off a terrific demonstration by the 57,808 Baltimore fans, and it was several minutes before Moore could fight his way back onto the field through happy fans.

The field was finally cleared, Steve Myhra made the convert and with about 10 seconds left, the Lions took the kick-off back to their own 35-yard line.

They had no more time-outs left and Earl Morrall, who came in to quarterback in the fourth quarter, told his potential receivers that the Colts would probably be expecting a sideline pass, enabling the receiver to automatically stop the clock by stepping out of bounds.

Morrall then found Jim Gibbons with a 15-yard pass over the middle and the end, getting one great block and making a fine cut which left a tackler wallowing in the wrong direction, raced 50 yards for a touchdown.

The game was over when Martin made the convert, and Green Bay Packers and San Francisco 49ers, were even with the Colts at 8-4. Chicago Bears only a half game behind although they were beaten.

And the Lions, at 5-5, might get into a division playoff by winning their last two games.

At Chicago, Paul Hornung led the Packers to a 41-13 rout of the Bears by breaking a league record set 18 years back. The former Notre Dame All-American, football's most versatile halfback, scored one touchdown on a pass, a second on a run, kicked two field goals and five converts.

The 23 points gave Hornung 132 for the 10 games his club has played this season. That's five more than the Washington Redskins have scored as a team in 10 games, only nine points less than Dallas Texans — in 1949 — to Pete Retzlaff and Tom McDonald and two field goals and two converts by Bobby Walston carried Philadelphia to a 20-6 win over St. Louis Cardinals.

Broken was the old high of 138 points, set by Don Hutson, great Green Bay end, in 1942.

The 49ers, who meet the Packers in a big game in San Francisco on Saturday, got their share of the western division lead with a fine 23-7 win over the Rams before 77,254 Los Angeles fans.

Oust-Mayor Petition Received, Filed

ALBERNI — This city's embattled woman mayor and the aldermen with whom she has been exchanging harsh words for months last night calmly and quietly received and filed a petition from 776 ratepayers calling for the mayor to resign.

There was no sign of emotion on the part of Mayor Mabel Anderson, who remained silent.

Her council opponents, Aldermen Tom Barnett, Charles Blair, Fred Bishop and George Dunbar, several of whom have made blistering attacks in the recent past, refrained from comment.

In fact, if it hadn't been for the curiosity of one of Mayor Anderson's supporters, Ald. Gordon Lundine, the petition would not have been read out loud at all.

The document received and filed was a copy of the petition which was addressed to Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black. A third copy has been sent to Alberni MLA John Squire. It was circulated by the Alberni Voters' Association.

Failing the mayor's resignation, the petition calls for a provincial investigation of the city's affairs.

The paper expresses "extreme concern by a significant number of citizens in Alberni over the manner in which our civic affairs are being run by the present mayor."

"We request that you ask Mayor Anderson to resign," it said, "since any effort on our part to get public recognition of this public expression of opinion would be useless."

It said the mayor had by-passed many similar requests.

"In many people's opinion the mayor is incompetent, and it is on this basis we feel she should be asked to resign."

In the event that this does not appear possible to yourself, we think that such a situation indicates a very definite need of an inquiry into our city's proceedings, and ask that you take proper action."

An audience of about 15, nearly all of them from the voters' association, sat silently through the meeting.

Ice Takes Heavy Toll in Cars

Alberni Road Worst Spot

Icy Island roads claimed a heavy toll in damaged cars Sunday, but there were no reports of injuries.

Worst trouble spot was the mountain stretch of the Alberni Highway, where one car skidded and turned over, two went into the ditch and another rammed an earth bank.

In the Duncan area, one car rolled down a 30-foot bank, and another hit a telephone pole and overturned.

CARS COLLIDE

South of Fanny Bay, two cars collided on an icy patch of road.

Allan G. Evans of Qualicum was the driver of the car that overturned on the Alberni Highway. He said his car skidded off the road when he hit a patch of slick old blacktop after running on recently-applied rough surface. Damage was about $500.

In the same place and under the same circumstances, a vehicle driven by Charles Horrocks of Port Alberni skidded into the ditch but remained upright. Damage was about $180.

ICY CURVE

An icy curve sent a car driven by Bert Bryant into the ditch. Another vehicle driven by Kharah Singh, attempting to dodge the skidding Bryant car, slammed across the road and into an embankment. Total damage was about $1,000.

An accident Saturday night, attributed to mechanical failure rather than ice, caused $300 damage to two vehicles. A car driven by Ken McMurdo went out of control and struck a vehicle driven by Edward Sadzak, on the curve between River Road and Falls Road.

SLID SIDWAYS

In the Duncan accidents, a car driven by Ralph Harvey of Kokislah was wrecked at 3:30 a.m. Sunday when it slid sideways on an icy patch, hurtled off the road, and crashed down a 30-foot bank on Miller Road, south of the city.

Another car, driven by Clarence Daniels, also of Kokislah, hit a pole and turned over on Allenby Road at 3:30 p.m.

Rising Floods Violent Gales Beset Europe

LONDON (Reuters)—Western Europe Monday night was beset by rising floods and violent storms that isolated villages, threatened coastal towns and battered Atlantic shipping.

Gales continued to lash at the German coast adding to already swollen rivers in the northwest. "Flood" warnings were issued in towns along the fast-rising River Vechte.

The industrial Ruhr Valley was among the hardest-hit areas in Germany. Authorities described the floods as the worst since 1946.

Two persons were killed and seven injured in gales over northern and eastern France.

One-third of the Dutch town of Meppel, which has 12,000 inhabitants, was under water.

Docks at Esbjerg, Denmark, on the North Sea coast were flooded.

In the most widespread flooding in English history, nearly 80 main roads were under water.

Rubbish Blaze

A rubbish blaze in a shed at 530 McKenzie was extinguished by Saanich fire department last night. The small shed is owned by J. F. Thorne, 4041 Wiseton.

Her council opponents, Aldermen Tom Barnett, Charles Blair, Fred Bishop and George Dunbar, several of whom have made blistering attacks in the recent past, refrained from comment.

In fact, if it hadn't been for the curiosity of one of Mayor Anderson's supporters, Ald. Gordon Lundine, the petition would not have been read out loud at all.

Premier Tells U.S.

Stop Sending Arms To Rebels in Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)—Neutralist Premier Souvanna Phouma said yesterday he wants the United States to stop sending arms to pro-Western rebels trying to overthrow him, although he has no objection if they receive American food and medicine.

The premier told a news conference in the midst of the twilight war plaguing this Indochinese kingdom that he sent a note Saturday to U.S. Ambassador Winthrop Brown demanding that the United States "put an end" to rebel arms shipments.

U.S. aid is furnished to the Laotian army by airlift to the various garrisons, many of which are controlled by right-wing rebel Brig. Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, a staunch anti-Communist.

The U.S. Embassy has maintained that since the aid is provided for the whole Laotian army, impartial distribution is justified.

She Stole to Give

Tearful Trip For Shopper

By CHARLES THOMPSON

DUNCAN — Among the gay Christmas shoppers and the splashes of color, the homely little girl's tears looked out of place.

She was a shoplifter at 11 years old, and she had been caught.

She stole to make people happy. She wanted to be able to give something. Whether she was trying to buy love or attention or a feeling of security is hard to say.

It had been her first attempt at stealing. Her take was valued at more than $15.

Her possession of the articles had led to questions at home. It was decided she would return the goods in person and apologize.

Saturday she returned the goods to the stores. A male, adult friend went ahead—without her knowing. He explained what she had done. He explained she had not stolen before.

When she faced the store managers she carried a small bag of wallets, handkerchiefs and colorful handkerchiefs to be worn around the neck.

Pieces of toilet paper with names written on them were in the wallets.

The first store manager heard her pathetic "I'm sorry." She cried. Her guardian cried. The store manager almost cried. He let the child go.

The second store manager lectured her, because he had been plagued with petty thievery.

And then she seemed to realize how wrong it is to take someone else's property.

Blizzard's Punch Worst in Winnipeg

WINNIPEG (CP) — First blizzard of the winter swept across southern Manitoba Monday, clogging roads and disrupting traffic.

The storm front reserved its Sunday punch for Winnipeg, blanketing the provincial capital with three inches of snow in a seven-hour period with 15-degree temperatures.

Blowing snow knocked the city's transportation system out of kilter and forced postponement for 24 hours of a Western Hockey League game between Vancouver and Winnipeg.

The weather office said temperatures would drop to zero and below in southern Manitoba overnight and even lower in Saskatchewan, which was touched by the fringe of the storm.

The cold snap also embraced Alberta where an earlier weekend snowfall accompanied the cold.

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons took a look Monday at the plight and problems of the mentally ill in Canada.

With Monday's sitting devoted to private members' bills, Alan Macnaughton (L—Montreal Mount Royal) led off debate on his resolution calling for a national survey into mental illness. He said:

"The time has come when Canada, on the initiative of the federal government, must take an inventory of the mental health program, of the state of its mental services, and examine all matters and legislation related to mental health and illness with a view to charting our course for the next 10 years."

SORRY COMMENTARY

"If we fail to act, it will be a sorry commentary upon us and upon the society in which we live."

Mr. Macnaughton called mental sickness a disease "that bewilders almost everyone."

The latest figures—for 1958—show that 47 of every 100 patients in hospital in Canada were in for psychiatric treatment. More than 75,000 Canadians were in psychiatric hospitals or training schools for mental deficiencies. In addition, there are more than 200,000 alcoholics, 3,000 drug addicts and each year about 1,800 people commit suicide.

SPENDING TOO LITTLE

He charged that the federal government is spending too little and spreading it too far, putting up some $54,500,000 a year to support mental hospitals, help develop new approaches to the treatment of mentally ill people, train personnel and foster research.

Policeman's Wife Theft Ringleader?

MONTREAL (CP)—The wife of a Montreal policeman has been arrested as the suspected leader of a gang of teen-aged thieves, it was learned Monday.

Detectives said the 24-year-old mother of two was picked up with five youths following a restaurant break-in.

While the woman underwent questioning her distraught husband walked the corridors of the detective bureau.

Chief detective Romeo Longpre said: "I have ordered a thorough inquiry. If there is sufficient evidence to warrant it, the prisoner will be charged in court."

The woman was described as a part-time waitress. Her identity was not disclosed.

Police said she was arrested in a car parked across the street from the restaurant.

Retail sales in Norway in the first seven months of 1960 were seven per cent higher than the same period of 1959.

Magazines' Success For Public to Decide

MONTREAL (CP) — R. M. Fowler, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, said Monday Canadian

CARMICHAEL SILVERSMITHS LTD.

Phone EV 3-1743

magazines would benefit more from measures to strengthen their position than from any aimed at weakening that of U.S. competitors.

He told the royal commission on publications the solution to the problems of Canadian magazines may lie in the direction of special mailing privileges and tax concessions. The assistance should not be based, however, on any value-judgment of a particular magazine, he said. Inevitably some publications without much merit would benefit but it was better to leave the judgment of quality entirely up to the reading public rather than "put it in the hands of any special group to determine what is a good or bad Canadian magazine."

NEEDED SAYING
Commission chairman Gratian O'Leary praised Mr. Fowler for saying "something on press freedom that needs to be said to a great many Canadians, including publishers."

He quoted the statement that freedom of the press "is basically not the freedom of publishers to publish, to make money, but the freedom of anyone to resort to the printed word to communicate with others."

Day after day people were appearing at the commission using press freedom as a weapon to oppose positive suggestions, he said.

Mr. O'Leary said "it is all right to say we must protect our periodical press but surely some distinction must be made. This idea of carte blanche is difficult. There are some periodicals in Canada for whose survival I would not be prepared to die."

'Future Is Bleak' For Periodicals

MONTREAL (UPI) — Publishers of Weekend Magazine, a weekly newspaper supplement, said Monday Canadian periodicals face a "very real danger" from unfair U.S. competition.

"The future is bleak indeed," the Montreal Standard Publishing Co. told the royal commission on publications.

NO INTENTION
A brief said the company had no intention of halting the flow of information—"or misinformation"—from foreign publications.

"But we do seek a balance," it said.

Noting that Canadian periodicals have a public role, the company said the issue of foreign competition is one of national importance: "The right and necessity for Canadian voices to be heard in Canada."

REAL DANGER

"If the voice of Canadian periodicals is smothered there may well follow an extension not only to other print media but to still other methods of communications."

"There is a real danger... of Canadian periodicals being engulfed."

Paton Returns

South Africa Grabs Author's Passport

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—Novelist Alan Paton, critic of South Africa's racial separation laws, was ordered yesterday to turn in his passport as he stepped from a plane which brought him home from the United States.

An order issued by Interior Minister Tom Naude withdrew his right to leave the country. Paton is president of the South African Liberal party.

In the U.S., Paton was given the freedom award in New York Oct. 5 and received Paris (Reuters)—Arrest warrants were issued Monday night after Pierre Lagallarde and four other Algerian rebels failed to appear at their trial amid reports they went to Spain to join Gen. Raoul Salan.

The five—all out on bail—were absent when a military court resumed hearings of internal security charges against 19 persons arrested after the anti-Gaullist settlers' uprising in Algiers last January.

The armed forces ministry issued arrest warrants against the companions of Lagallarde.

Joining Salan in Spain?

red-headed member of the National Assembly.

After a meeting between Premier Michel Debre and Justice Minister Edmond Michelet, it was decided to ask Parliament today to lift La-gallarde's parliamentary immunity so that he could be arrested himself.

Lagallarde's lawyer, Jean Gallot, said he received an anonymous telephone call saying his client had "gone to Spain" to join Salan, former commander-in-chief in Algeria. Rumors circulated that right-wing settlers in Algeria planned a coup to forestall the January referendum in which residents of France and Algeria will be asked to endorse de Gaulle's plans for an "Algerian Algeria."

Serve All Cafes Told

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Supreme Court ruled Monday that "white" restaurants in interstate bus terminals must serve Negroes making journeys across state lines. The tribunal ruled on an appeal by Bruce Boynton, a Negro who was fined $10 for refusing to leave a "white" restaurant in a bus terminal in Richmond under a Virginia law.

EATON'S Store Services

When you shop at EATON'S you get more than just merchandise. You get service, too—all the way from free parking for cars to free riding for babies! Look at the "extras" below, which are just a few of the added reasons for doing all your Christmas shopping at EATON'S.

The Finishing Touch

Gift wrapping adds so much to a present—yet if you're not the dexterous type, it can seem more trouble than it's worth. Get the best of both worlds by having our experts wrap your gifts—they'll be almost too pretty to open! Gift Wrap is on the second floor—a nominal charge is made for the service.

Easy Money

Well, not easy money, exactly, but an EATON Budget-Charge does make handling the family money so much easier. You'll be delighted at the modest monthly payments—for example, if your balance is 300.00, the payment is only 16.00, including service charge. Open a Budget-Charge now, and your Christmas shopping problems are well on the way to being solved!

Direct Delivery

Park your car in EATON'S new Customer Carpark—shop at your leisure throughout the store, and have all your parcels sent to the Carpark. No carrying heavy packages—our Carpark attendants will put everything in the car for you as you drive out. This way you can enjoy your purchases the day you buy them—no waiting for tomorrow's delivery.

Mother's Help

Bring junior shopping with you—no problems when you use our Stroller Service! Pick up a stroller at the Carpark and he can travel in luxury around the store with you. No more tired walls or demands to be carried—chances are he'll just fall asleep and you'll get your shopping done in jig-time.

Having a Party?

Then be sure to consult our Hostess Shop on the Main Floor. You don't have to tire yourself out making sandwiches or baking cakes. Whether you want a whole buffet supper—turkey, ham, everything down to the pickles, or just a few sandwiches, our Hostess Shop will arrange it for you. Then you'll be fresh and relaxed, and ready to enjoy your own party.

Give the Whole Store

You give a choice from the whole store when you give an EATON gift certificate—so it's the easy solution to difficult gift problems. Available in convenient denominations at the third floor cheque-cashing wicket, and may be used at any EATON store.

Thrills, Spills Raise $200 for City's Needy

Downtown Trees Potted Tomorrow

Workmen will erect 18 Christmas trees in decorated wooden pots along Yates Street, between Douglas and Government Streets, tomorrow.

The trees, each 10 feet high, will be decorated later this week with festoons of 50 white lights each.

The decoration is being carried out by Victoria Chamber of Commerce. Merchants in other city blocks can arrange to decorate their sidewalks in the same way.

Chamber Group

Breakwater Asked For Cadboro Bay

Construction of a breakwater in the entrance to Cadboro Bay may be sought by the harbor and transportation group of the Chamber of Commerce.

But first, the group decided yesterday, it will try to find if the proposal has ever before resulted in a survey or serious study.

T. G. Denny, who put the suggestion before the group, said such a breakwater—"not a little difky breakwater," but a large one across the mouth of the bay with openings perhaps at both ends—could make the bay a useful haven for large and small pleasure and commercial boats.

Steps would have to be taken, however, to make sure the bay was not used for permanent boom storage, he said.

W. G. McIntosh, referring to Cadboro Bay as one of the finest sailboat areas in the northwest, said such a breakwater would ruin the bay for sailboat racing. But Mr. Denny suggested that openings could be so arranged that there would be no interference.

The group also voted to seek more information before lending its weight to pressure for a breakwater at Port Renfrew to protect fishing boats, logging facilities and the boats of a mining company.

Other action yesterday: ● The group recommended that the chamber press for early action to increase the capacity of the Patricia Bay Highway to "the equivalent of four lanes."

● It recommended that the chamber support Mayor Percy Scurrell's effort to have the third provincial ferry called "Mv. Victoria." Although Saanich is pressing for "Mv. Saanich," Mr. Denny said, Saanich is already recognized in the naming of Mv. Sidney.

● It called for cleaning of the Inner Harbor earlier and later in the summer than at present. The city contracts to have the harbor cleared of logs and debris each summer, but Mr. Denny said the clearing is done only in July and August.

Holly Crop A Sellout On Island

Sale of this year's entire crop of Vancouver Island holly was practically guaranteed yesterday upon receipt here of new orders from Eastern Canada.

Earlier sales were heaviest in the Prairie provinces.

To keep up with the orders, a night shift will work from today through Saturday at the association's packinghouse in Victoria, said an industry spokesman.

Angry, Jobless City Shipyard Workers Call for Mass Meeting, MP's Resignation

Spurred by "worsening unemployment" within its ranks, a local shipyard union yesterday called for resignation of city MP A. DeB. McPhillips and a mass meeting of unemployed in Greater Victoria.

James McConachy, business agent for Local 91, International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, said 200 members of his union alone are now jobless and the situation is "worsening all the time."

Victoria Labor Council will be asked to stage the mass demonstration of unemployed workers in all trades, said Mr. McConachy. The central labor body is asked also to circulate a petition calling for Mr. McPhillips' resignation from the Commons.

Pleas mailed to Prime Minister Diefenbaker and members of his cabinet calling for more shipbuilding contracts to help local industry have brought several replies to date, said Mr. McConachy, but

After Six-Hour Session

Arena Rehiring? It's Still a Secret

Memorial Arena Commission met in secret session for nearly six hours without a break last night to discuss a "suggestion" from city council that it reinstate six employees whose resignation precipitated the arena controversy.

As members filed out of the committee room in the arena shortly after 10 p.m., commission chairman F. G. Mulliner was asked what decision was reached in the meeting.

"Who wants to know?" Mr. Mulliner asked a reporter, and when told the public wanted to know, the chairman said: "I don't give a damn who wants to know."

After hurried consultations with other members of the commission, Mr. Mulliner said later "We are in the process of preparing a written report to the mayor and council. It wouldn't be fair to disclose the contents at this time."

Was any decision reached at the meeting? "No comment," said Mr. Mulliner. Mayor Scurrell proposed to members of the arena commission at the close of a public meeting with city council to discuss the controversy over mass resignations on the arena staff that six former employees be re-instated until a new manager is hired.

Rotary Opens Drive For Goodwill Shops

Holiday at Sea

Weather Ship Off Today

The weather ship CGS Stonetown is due to sail today for her lonely north Pacific station on a tour of duty that will keep her at sea over the festive season.

Supplies of Christmas pudding, turkey, beer and Christmas trees were loaded aboard the ship yesterday to brighten the seven-week voyage.

Stonetown is expected to reach weather station Papa, some 900 miles off Cape Flattery, Friday and relieve her sister ship CGS Catherine which is due to arrive here Monday.

Making a start toward construction of a $200,000 Goodwill Enterprises workshop building in Victoria West to employ another 100 handicapped men, women and young people, the Rotary Club yesterday opened a campaign for $25,000.

Aim is to start construction of the building in April, 1962. Enabling the present Goodwill Enterprises premises at 560 Yates to be given over entirely to retail selling, the factory will consist of a warehouse for materials, sorting area, textile workshop including laundry and dry cleaning units, repair shops, kitchen and dining room to serve hot, low-cost lunches for the staff, medical unit, non-denominational chapel, offices and service and parking facilities.

The building will have a branch store in front and a garden area where employees can sit in the noon hour in good weather.

Directed by a group of business and professional men who donate their time, Goodwill Enterprises is sponsored by Victoria Rotary.

Albert Hull: "The problems of Saanich are no greater than any other municipality in British Columbia."

Mrs. Mira Yarwood: "Planning must be promoted if we are to develop our area to the best use of land and the best servicing of land."

Saanich Candidates

Hope for Industry Sets Off Squabble

Future of industrial development in Saanich touched off one of the few major arguments last night among the 12 candidates seeking three vacancies on council.

Four speakers at an all-candidate meeting in Royal Oak School called for moves to attract industry to the municipality as a means of broadening its tax base, but two others flatly dismissed Saanich as a site for industry.

FIRST VENTURE

Frank Beamish, making his first venture into municipal politics, called for investigation of the possibility of hiring a paid commissioner to attract industry to Saanich. He was followed by Robert Fleming, Lionel Speller and incumbent Coun. Harold Todd, all favoring attempts to persuade industry to the municipality.

But former reeve Joseph Casey and newcomer William Chard described the proposal as "unrealistic."

WORK AGAINST

"I think it would be tragic to urge people to come here as the economic forces are going to work against them," Mr. Chard said.

"Saanich is a residential place. It never will be a manufacturing area. The freight rate kills them," Mr. Casey added. "Sidney Roofing left Victoria and they are saving $250,000 a year in freight costs."

More than 60 persons attended the meeting, jointly sponsored by Prospect Lake Community Association and Elk Lake Ratepayers' Association. Other comments included:

EXPLORE WAYS

Robert Fleming: "It is necessary for the municipality to explore ways of holding the line against further increases in taxes."

Cunningham MacMillan: "It is going to be a severe winter—we haven't seen the quarter of it yet. It is going to be the job... of all departments to hold the line on costs."

Mrs. Beatrice Mundell: "There should have a general purposes committee to go about and inspect some of those places (complained about by ratepayers)."

NO GREATER

Albert Hull: "The problems of Saanich are no greater than any other municipality in British Columbia."

Mrs. Mira Yarwood: "Planning must be promoted if we are to develop our area to the best use of land and the best servicing of land."

Car Victim Discharged

Edna Armstrong, 581 White-side, who received leg injuries Nov. 23 when struck by a car at the Cook and View intersection, was discharged Saturday from St. Joseph's Hospital.

Plane Survivor May Come Home

Frederick "Bob" Proctor, 48, 2663 Musgrave, injured when a small plane crashed Nov. 25 on a Fraser River sandbar, was reported in satisfactory condition at Vancouver General Hospital.

Mrs. Proctor said last night her husband may be transferred this coming weekend to a hospital in Victoria.

Will Government Build Housing?

Saanich municipal officials will investigate the possibility of a $3,000,000 federal-provincial government-sponsored housing scheme in the Cadboro Bay, Shelbourne, Cedar Hill area if two conditions can be met.

The two factors governing the investigation are the approval of the $1,200,000 sewerage scheme for the area which will be voted on Thursday, and a shortage of houses.

Reeve George Chatterton said last night that if the sewerage scheme is approved and it is found that private developers are unable to meet the demand for housing, the two senior governments might be interested in developing the housing scheme.

City Engineers Meet Tonight

The Victoria section, American Institute of Electrical Engineers, will hold a dinner meeting tonight in the Olde England Inn, starting at 6:15 p.m. Guy Barclay of the B.C. Electric will talk on his travels to Europe.

B.C. Grants $538,927 For Elderly

Provincial Secretary Wesley Black has announced that $538,927 in grants toward senior citizens' housing projects have been approved since last April 1.

Some 20 separate projects are involved, supplying accommodation for an additional 478 elderly people. Four of the projects, including two in Victoria, were on Vancouver Island.

Higher Pay Asked For School Chiefs

B.C. school trustees yesterday asked the provincial cabinet to increase the salaries of district school superintendents. In a number of areas throughout the province, school principals are at present receiving more than superintendents and the trustees felt that the senior official should get more.

They also presented cabinet with a copy of resolutions passed at their annual convention last October.

Keen Demand Brings Eggs from Mainland

Owing to high seasonal sales, eggs were in keen demand in Victoria yesterday, and some eggs had to be brought over from the mainland to meet the local requirements.

The shortage has caused the price of large, medium and small Grade A eggs to rise by two cents a dozen.

New Party Choice Here Won't Be 'Just CCFer'

NOT JUST A NAME: The national director of New Party Clubs, R. Desmond Sparham, told us yesterday that if the New Party has a candidate running in the Esquimalt-Saanich federal byelection he must be a legitimate New Party member, not just a CCFer running under a different banner.

Such a candidate, he said, should be chosen by members of the CCF, trade unionists and members of New Party Clubs he helped form in Esquimalt-Saanich and Victoria during the last two days.

"Unless they do this they will not succeed," he said. "But I doubt if they will try to fool the people. It would be letting down the New Party."

Mr. Sparham, a former Englishman who began life as a coal miner when he was 14, described himself as "a good strong, passionate Canadian."

He said the New Party was specifically designed for every Canadian who saw himself as

NO JUSTICE: Unhappiest guy in town is rookie Cougar coach George Agar, whose hapless players have scored a total of 17 goals in the past four games yet have lost all four.

WINTER WORK: A Gulf Islands resident who noticed the item here about Chief Mungo Martin and Henry Hunt, local totem pole carvers who are about to join the unemployed, is interested in having a special nine-foot pole carved for her home.

This should provide the carvers with a few days extra work—providing the price is reasonable—and other readers may feel similarly inclined.

Could be that a thriving custom-carved totem pole business may be built up.

PAY PACKET: The word is that B.C.'s newest cabinet minister, Mrs. Buda Brown, will be paid a salary despite what it says in the Constitution Act.

Officially a minister without portfolio cannot receive a salary but is eligible for expenses. It's expected this will be amended at the coming session.

Present salaries for cabinet ministers are $17,500 each, which includes the $5,000 seasonal indemnity paid to each member of the legislature.

BACK TO BACK: Campaign officials for unionist Alfred W. Toone, standing for city council, asked perennial prankster Bill Scott if he would mind putting a big "vote for Toone" poster in his window.

Bill obliged but once the officials were gone he turned the placard back to front and scrawled out a "vote for Victor Williams" on the back before putting it in the window.

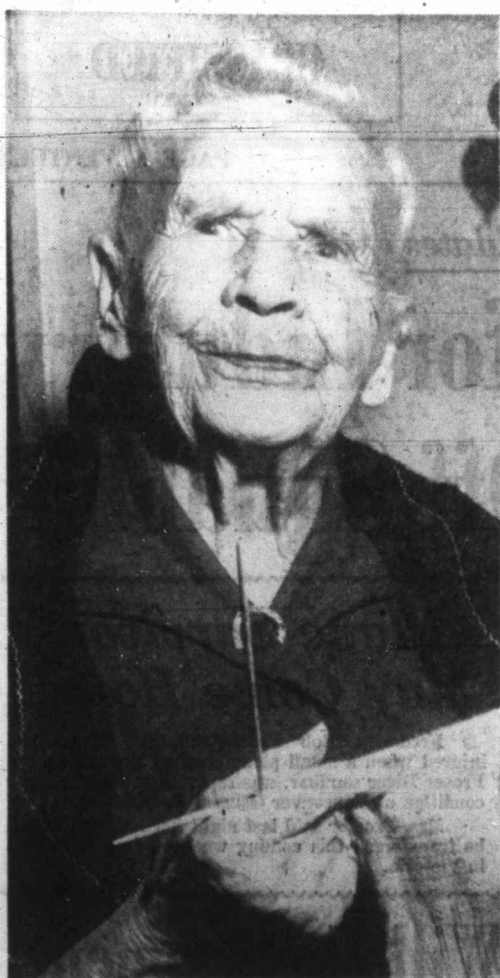

From outside the store it was a plug for Mr. Williams, inside it was a plug for Mr. Toone.

Bill's joy was short-lived. The campaign workers soon came back, complained that they were short of placards and took it away.

OVERWORKED: If you feel in need of a minute-long inspirational message and dial EV 5-2611 for the religious thought of the day be prepared for a long wait.

The newly inaugurated "Dial-a-thoughts" service is evidently getting a lot of business. It's almost perpetually busy.

Little and frail now but still displaying an indomitable spirit is Mrs. Ruth Driver, who will be 100 years old on Friday, Dec. 9. On that day, Mrs. Driver, who lives with her two daughters, Mrs. E. Milligan and Mrs. E. Harwood, at 1888 Carnarvon, will be at home to her friends both in the afternoon and evening. Mrs. Driver was born in Wisconsin and came to Victoria in 1906. She spends her time now reading her favorite magazines and knitting—doing both without glasses.

WHAT'S COOKING

CHRISTMAS TREE

The butter in this cookie gives it a crisp texture and rich mellow flavor.
1 egg, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 cups pastry flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt.

Cream butter, add sugar gradually, cream well together. Add egg and flavoring, combine thoroughly. Sift together dry ingredients; add gradually to creamed mixture. Roll out on lightly floured board to about 1/4-inch thickness. Cut into round or other shapes. Use broad spatula to place cookies on lightly greased cookie sheet. Make a small hole near top edge of cookie before baking. After cookie is baked and decorated thread a piece of string through hole and hang on tree. Or use Christmas tree ornament hangers. Hook into edge of cookie and pull out slightly to embed in dough. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) until light golden around edges, 6 to 8 minutes.

TRIM TRICKS FOR

Decorations may be put on glazed or plain cookies.

To make Glaze — Add just enough milk to 2 cups of sifted icing sugar to make an icing which is a little thinner than spreading consistency. This makes about 1/2 cup of icing. Divide into three or more portions. Leave one white and add a few drops of food coloring to others.

To Glaze — Use a soft brush or knife, brush or spread icing on cooled cookies. Let dry on a rack.

To attach candies, glaze cherries or gumdrops — Put small drops of light corn syrup on cookie with toothpick wherever candies etc. are to be placed. Pick up decoration with tweezers and place on syrup drop.

YULE LOGS

Three-quarter cup butter, 1/4 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons water, 1/2 to 1 teaspoon almond extract, 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 egg white, slightly beaten, 1/2 cup finely chopped, blanched almonds.

Cream butter, add sugar and cream well together. Stir in water and almond extract. Add flour gradually and combine thoroughly. Divide dough into 8 equal portions. On an unfloured board, roll each piece into an 8-inch roll about the thickness of a finger, then cut into 2-inch lengths. Brush rolls with slightly beaten egg white, then roll in chopped nuts. Place on ungreased cookie sheet and bake in a moderate oven (350F) until nuts are lightly browned, 12 to 15 minutes. Makes 32 "logs."

CANADIAN PALETTES

One-half cup butter, 1/4 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup finely chopped, blanched almonds, 1 egg white, slightly beaten, colored sugar or small "shot" candies.

Cream butter, add sugar and cream well together. Add egg and lemon rind, then combine thoroughly. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt, then stir in almonds. Add gradually to creamed mixture and combine thoroughly. Roll out on lightly floured board to about 1/4-inch thickness. Cut into rounds with floured 2 or 2 1/2-inch cookie cutter. Using a floured small thimble, cut a hole in each cookie to one side of centre. Brush cookies with beaten egg white, then sprinkle with colored sugar or "shot." Using a broad spatula, place on greased cookie sheet. Bake in a moderate oven (350F) until light golden around edges, 8 to 10 minutes.

Cathedral Guild Sale Features Holiday Fare

The annual Christmas tea and sale of Christ Church Cathedral Women's Parish Guild was held in Memorial Hall on Saturday. Proceeds amounted to $800.

Christmas cakes, puddings and mince pies were specialties of the successful sale. Mrs. J. F. K. English, president, and Mrs. Brian Whitlow received patrons in the gymnasium which had been decorated with holly and Christmas greenery by Mrs. Whitlow and Miss D. Lucas.

Mrs. W. Stubbs, Mrs. C. Riach and Mrs. J. Wells were in charge of tea arrangements and Miss B. Morley convened the Christmas bakers.

Others in charge of stalls were Mrs. C. Barker, home cooking; Mrs. Whitlow, jewelry; Mrs. E. Stocker, novelties; Mrs. T. Evans, aprons; Miss K. Jaffray, baby wear; Mrs. E. Stocker, fancy wear and novelties; Mrs. P. Robinson, paintings; Miss Beryl Francis, fellows of St. Francis; and Miss Sandy Duff, A.Y.P.A.

Other members assisting at stalls and in the tearoom were Mrs. D. Mitchell, Mrs. S. White, Mrs. E. Greenhill, Mrs. R. Howell, Mrs. J. Buckle, Miss I. Cole, Mrs. G. Gilbert, Mrs. P. Porter, Mrs. M. Wigley, Mrs. P. Player, Mrs. E. Martin, Miss G. Hardy, Miss C. Cowley, Mrs. A. Raine, Mrs. Stevenson, Mrs. K. Smith, Mrs. B. Baird and Mrs. A. Greenwood.

Members of the Girls' Auxiliary under their leader, Miss Izard, assisted in serving tea and Mrs. W. C. Winkel took the tea tickets.

The Cathedral Boys' Choir, directed by Mr. R. Proudman, provided entertainment.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: We have two adopted children. The little boy is two and the baby girl is only six weeks old. The question is, shall we tell these children they are adopted? If so—how? My husband and his parents are dead set against it. They say if a child is told he is adopted he'll develop feelings of insecurity and will always wonder where his REAL parents are. Please, please, give me a strong answer—one way or the other. This has become a big problem in our home.—MARIETTA.

Dear Marietta: I recently read a piece by Dianne MacLeod Bratton. Her answer to this question is the best I have ever seen. Here it is:

"Tell your child he is adopted? Of course you will. It was told long before I could understand the words, and to this day I remember it as my favorite story."

"No child should be deprived of knowing that he came to his parents because he was wanted more than anything else on earth. I always loved to hear my parents tell about how the lady at the agency brought me in to become acquainted with Mom and Dad and how I pulled Dad's thumb—but each child's story is different."

"Don't ever hesitate to tell your child how you adopted him. Tell him with real meaning and expression. No child is too young or too old to know how very much you want him. Let him feel 'special.'"

Dear Ann Landers: If I go down to the police station with my wife and offer to take a lie detector test to prove that I have not been running around, will the police give it to me?

I've been married 11 years and have always been a good husband and father. I come home right after work and I stay there. I don't go any place without my wife on weekends, in fact, she always has a long list of things for me to do around the house and I couldn't go any place even if I wanted to.

Now she has the crazy idea that I'm stepping out on her. I've asked her to tell me when I'd have the time. She says "You've got something figured out."

The only thing I can think of to clear me is a lie test. Will they let me take this one?

INNOCENT.
Dear Innocent: Forget it. If the police spent time giving lie detector tests to all husbands under suspicion there'd be no time to look for criminals.

My advice is to get off your knees and let your record speak for itself. You sound like a jewel to me.

Dear Ann Landers: Three years ago our only son married a girl whom we always thought was odd. She rarely spoke to us and we never got to know what she was like.

Shortly after they married they moved to another city 150 miles away. They told us they'd invite us to visit them "when they got settled." We are still waiting. In the meantime they have had two children and we heard about it from strangers. They have never written us a line or given us a phone call.

We are heartbroken to think a wife could turn an only son against his folks this way. He used to be devoted and loving until he met her. What should we do, if anything?

SAD PARENTS.

Dear Sad: Put half the blame on your "loving son." It would take more than a wife to cause such a breach. Three years is a long time to wonder. Bring this peculiar situation out into the open and find out what's behind the shabby treatment. Silence never solved anything.

TIPS FOR PARENTS

A little girl stood looking at her empty swing, her small finger held up in admonition, a threatening frown on her face.

"You're going to get it," she said to an apparent occupant. "I'm not going to help you."

"I'm going to make you go high—and you're not going to get off. If you get off, you'll never have a swing again! Grantina, you can fly like a birdie."

"Get off, Grantina. Get off. It's my turn now."

A child who is mentally deranged? Not at all. Simply a child with an imaginary companion whom she has named "Grantina."

One study shows that these playmates are created by 30 to 40 per cent of children.

They are usually youngsters who are lonely because they lack brothers and sisters about their own age or other companions.

Lack of warm affection and interest on the part of parents sometimes lies back of this phenomenon.

Usually a child who creates such playmates is bright.

No wonder the parents worry about the Grantinas because they come in such curious form.

There was, for example, "Gin-gin," created by three-year-old Judith.

Gin-gin could do forbidden things and not get into trouble. What do we know about imaginary playmates?

They appear before the second or third year, fading away—or being flushed down the bathtub as was Sandet because he became a nuisance—at about four and a half years when real companions take their place.

Paris Ablaze For Festival

Paris has donned her Christmas festival clothes and is now ablaze with anticipation of "Le Pere Noel's" imminent arrival.

Le Pere Noel, of course, is Santa Claus, that international ambassador of goodwill, whose meaning to French children is as great as to any youngster in New York, San Francisco, Miami, or Des Moines, Iowa.

Youngsters in France, however, greet him a bit differently than in America. Christmas Eve will find tiny shoes, rather than stockings, by the fireplace. Although many homes do have Christmas trees, Santa is more likely to find a crèche, a small nativity scene with terra cotta figures called santons bearing gifts to the infant Jesus.

ON HORSEBACK
Santa won't bring "Donner and Blitzen to France either—they'll remain at one of his private airports on the North Pole. Instead, he'll more than likely arrive as old St. Nicholas, on horseback.

Small French children, like their Canadian sisters and brothers, will be fast asleep on Christmas Eve, but unlike the typical Canadian home on that night, there'll be more than a mouse stirring in the average French home, where the family, just back from midnight mass, will begin its annual Christmas Reveillon.

FLASH

Le Reveillon, in Paris at least, will mean pate de foie gras, oysters with a dry Pouilly-Fuissé, one of Burgundy's finest white wines. This will be followed by turkey, or goose, a fine red wine, cheese—and another wine—and cake (more than likely a Buche de Noel, shaped like a log, with chocolate icing).

Such a feast, of course, will then be topped off with a good "digestif," or after-dinner drink—a necessary finale for all extraordinary French banquets.

In addition to the Reveillon, each French region has its own individual Christmas customs which add even more flavor (if that is possible after the above menu) to the great Christmas festival.

RELIGION

Other parts of France tend to emphasize the religious aspect of Christmas more than in Paris, perhaps, with colorful processions at midnight on Christmas Eve.

Les Baux, for example, a village near Arles in Provence, is renowned for its ceremony in which shepherds and their lambs march to the church of Saint-Vincent.

Gregorian chants are included in the services of the 1,000-year-old Benedictine basilica of St-Benoit-sur-Loire and the 11th-century Benedictine abbey at Solesmes, both in the Loire Valley. And at Valberg, a ski resort in the Maritime Alps, north of Nice, midnight of Christmas Eve is marked by a torchlight procession of skiers winding their way through the snows.

CHILDREN

While Christmas is a time for gifts for French children, it is primarily a religious holiday for the grown-ups, who save their adult-to-adult gift giving—and card sending—for New Year's Day.

Garden Notes

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

One of the major disappointments in gardening is to shell out a few of those hard-earned dollars for a fruit tree only to see it put on vigorous growth year after year with nary a sign of any blossoms or fruit. Sometimes this is due to buying cheap bargain-counter trees from one of the fast-buck mail order firms but, more often than not, the tree has gone all fat and lazy through too-generous treatment on the part of its owner.

The first thing to do in the case of such unfruitful trees is to check the depth of planting. All fruit trees are grafted, partly to ensure truthness to name and partly to restrict their size and bring them into bearing earlier in life, but too-deep planting will nullify the dwarfing effect of the graft. An apple or pear tree growing on its own roots may take 15 years or more before producing any fruit.

The place where the tree was grafted can be seen as a swollen spot on the stem and this must definitely be above the soil surface. If you can't find this swelling on your reluctant tree, start digging. Chances are, if the graft was buried, you'll find roots emerging from above the swelling and these are the cause of the vigorous growth and lack of fruitfulness.

All such roots emerging from above the graft must be nipped off flush with the stem, otherwise you'll have an apple the size of a forest tree and you'll be drawing your old age pension before you get any fruit. These roots will grow again if the graft swelling is recovered with soil, so probably your best bet is to dig up the tree and replant it at its proper depth, with the graft a good two inches above soil level.

If you can rule out overly deep planting as the cause of unfruitfulness, your second suspect should be a too-rich soil and the treatment here may take several forms. The simplest is to lay sod or sow grass seed over the root run to use up the excess nitrogen. This is often remarkably effective, although the results may not show up for several years.

A more drastic operation is bark-ringling, in which a shallow notch about a quarter-inch wide is cut completely around the trunk. I am not too enthusiastic over this business of hacking into a tree for, while it will curb excessive vigor, I have seen too many cases where "the operation was successful but the patient died."

Where major surgery is indicated to teach a reluctant tree the error of its ways, I'd sooner do the hacking on the underground parts, which have a greater power to regenerate themselves. This is known as root-pruning.

A circular trench is dug around the tree with its inner edge about three feet out from the trunk. Any long, thong-like roots encountered are cut cleanly, preferably just beyond a point where a branch root emerges. The trench should be deep enough to penetrate well below the mass of roots and it is a good idea to finish off by driving a sharp-edged spade on the slant, inward and downward, to sever any tap roots which are plunging to the depths.

When the work is completed mix a little peat moss with the excavated soil and return it to the trench, packing it down very firmly as the work proceeds. Don't be too disappointed if the tree still refuses to bloom next spring, as the full effect of the operation won't be felt until the summer of 1962.

These treatments are indicated only when a tree fails to bear blossoms. When flowers appear but no fruit or when small fruits form only to fall off, the trouble is due to an entirely different cause—usually the lack of a "husband"—and all the hacking in the world won't help it bear any fruit.

Muckraking Fan Magazines

A newspaperman who comes out on behalf of a libel suit is a little like an archbishop throwing his support to the devil. Nevertheless, I think the suit of Elizabeth Taylor and Eddie Fisher against the fan magazines is a milestone in jurisprudence and a healthy blow toward freedom and sanity in the press.

When I was a boy, shortly after the earth's crust had cooled, fan magazines were entirely filled with chocolate marshmallow sauce. Joan Crawford was shown in her kitchen, dicing carrots, and spouting wholesome thoughts about motherhood, the sanctity of marriage, and the intrinsic goodness of God. Then Confidential magazine came along. Overnight the character of our movie goddesses changed—at least in the fan magazines they changed.

Overnight our movie stars became practitioners of the more extreme forms of sexual license, committing incest for breakfast and all that. It is hard to say which fantasy of the fan mags—Joan Crawford in the kitchen, or Elizabeth Taylor in the boudoir—is more inaccurate. As journalism goes, both portraits are as close as to the facts as "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" is to "The Grapes of Wrath"—which is to say, not very close.

The Elizabeth Taylor-Eddie Fisher case is a little different. Always before in libel cases, the defendant had at least the pretence of truth. If it did not defend him altogether, it at least mitigated his sin. The defendant, in effect, said something like: "When I was walking to work this morning, the butcher told me that So-and-so was going to marry So-and-so. Now, I know it isn't true but I thought it was true when I wrote it."

However, the Fishers will argue that there is not the slightest pretence of truth in the fan magazines which have implied the most shocking behavior to both of them in the bold type, usually on the cover of the magazine, and then contradicted themselves in the body of the story.

As a sample of what the Fishers have been subjected to, a magazine headline screamed: "Liz's Children Will Be Taken Away From Her." The body of the article stated only that eventually Miss Taylor's children would grow up, get married, and lead their own lives.

One of the most shocking headlines: "Steve Boyd Has Broken Up Liz and Eddie's Marriage." In this one, the fan mag said Steve Boyd invariably had a romance with his leading ladies. Since Boyd was to appear in "Cleopatra" with Miss Taylor, ergo... The picture hasn't even been started yet. Still the title says the marriage has been broken up.

Freedom of the press is a very broad freedom and it must remain a very broad freedom. But it has never been, nor was ever intended, to be unlimited freedom. The only restraint has been the laws of libel.

The trouble with this type of conspicuous journalism is that it drags all journalism down with it.

Today the viciousness and scurrilousness and sexuality of the fan magazines have changed the tenor and tone of such magazines as Time and Look, to say nothing of the women's magazines. This libel suit may give pause to every editor and every writer. I think it's high time.

Hollywood Today

By Sheilah Graham

A Walking Yardstick

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—Glenn Ford was amazed when a woman at the Oklahoma City world premiere of "Cimarron" Thursday night rushed up to him, put her hand on his chest, and demanded, "Does Debbie Reynolds come up to here?" The embarrassed Mr. Ford mumbled, "Yeah, I reckon so." Whereupon the woman scrutinized Glenn from top to toe, and pronounced, "Young man, you're taller than I thought."

Carol Lynley is determined to marry her 20th Century-Fox publicity man, Mike Selman, although her mother is hoping she will wait until she's a year or so older. Carol has a starring role in "Return to Peyton Place."

Bette Davis, who agreed to appear at the benefit for the "Fight for Sight" group at Carnegie Hall next week, will do readings from Carl Sandberg. Then she returns to Hollywood to star in "Return to Peyton Place."

Marilyn Monroe will spend the Christmas holidays working at the Latin Quarter in Philadelphia. After a few weeks of rest, she'll be off to her native Germany to star in the Stanley Kramer picture, "Judgment at Nuremberg." She will be the only woman in a big cast of men headed by Spencer Tracy.

Director Bruce Humberstone expects the signature of Gov. Abraham Ribicoff on the extradition papers to bring Humberstone's ex-wife Gay back to California to face child-abduction charges. Gay spirited their daughter out of California and into Connecticut where she lives with new husband Sinclair Robinson. Humberstone was awarded complete custody of their child at the time of the divorce.

Marilyn Monroe is still too tired to attend classes at the Actor's Studio. The death of her "Misfits" co-star Clark Gable affected her very much. Estranged husband Arthur Miller is in New York, and settling the details of their divorce which, I hear, will be a quickie in Mexico.

Doctor Advises:

Reach for a Filly Not a Filter-Tip

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI)—A British doctor has advised jaded businessmen to pack up their troubles by reaching for a blonde or brunette instead of a cigarette.

Dr. Alistair Mackinnon, 45, the father of five grown children, put forth his "Don't smoke—flirt" theory in the medical magazine, The Practitioner. His opinion is that a light romance is the ideal way to make a man forget routine troubles.

"I would not suggest flirtation as an alternative to smoking for younger men," he hastened to add. "That could be dangerous." He advised young men to take up chess or beer drinking perhaps simultaneously with a series of "platonic" friendships.

Dr. Mackinnon, who is a non-smoker, amplified on this: "I'd wallop him," she said.

here was in hospital last week for three days because of rheumatism. Her doctor suggested then Maggie might do a little less walking around if she had a radio.

Princess Maggie becomes angry when people estimate her age at 100, insisting she still has three years to go.

Maggie had a radio at one time, but when friends took away her animal traps to force her to give up hunting, she cut a hole in the radio cabinet and converted it into a beaver-trap.

Show Business

By Dick Williams

Director William Wyler of "Ben-Hur" is known around Hollywood as one of the film industry's most exacting craftsmen. Some years ago perfectionist Wyler was assigned by Samuel Goldwyn to make "The Westerner," a high-budget job starring Gary Cooper.

Wyler had not directed a western since his apprentice days at Universal. To get the proper feel, he decided to run off one of his early efforts.

TERRY FRENCH
... excellent.

A selection was made from the quickie heritage, which included such titles as "Lazy Lightning," "Hard Fists," "Thunder Riders" and "Border Cavalier."

As he watched, he began to pick it to pieces. "There are bits of business here that don't belong," he told his assistant. "They do nothing to advance story."

"Terrible," he cried a little later at a close-up. "The whole scene should come out."

Wyler and his film editor met the following morning and began to work on the 15-year-old oater, snipping out scenes here and splicing in cuts there.

It was 2 a.m. before they finished the job. "Much better," beamed Wyler.

Then the old film was sent back to the storage vaults!

Canadians

Troops Donate Hospital

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Some 800 Canadian UNEF soldiers are preparing a mammoth Christmas gift for Palestine refugees in the vicinity of their camp at Rafah, a cable from Gaza reported Monday.

Construction of an 18-bed maternity hospital and a baby clinic capable of handling 300 cases a day will begin before Dec. 25.

SPECIAL REQUEST

When the UNEF committee met to organize the annual Christmas gift to the refugees, the Canadian contingent requested this as a special contribution.

Col. H. T. Fosbery, the Canadian commander, said his contingent had expressed the wish to do "something tangible" for the refugees which would be "a permanent memorial of our service over here."

CLINIC CLOSED

The Canadian gift followed visits made to the camps of the UN Relief and Works Agency by Canadian soldiers who found that in the refugee camps at Khan Yunis, five miles from Rafah, no facilities of this kind existed since a clinic had been closed because of an outbreak of infant tetanus.

ENTHUSIASTICALLY

No replacement funds were available and UNRWA officials and doctors enthusiastically accepted the Canadian offer after Fosbery held a meeting of all ranks which unanimously endorsed the project.

R. L. Fisher, UNRWA director in the Gaza area, described the gift as "a material advance which will do untold good over the years. We are in desperate need of this hospital."

February Crash

Death Ends Woman's Long Coma

Unconscious since a high-way crash last Feb. 27 which took two other lives, Mrs. Elspeth Norton, 28, died at 6.55 a.m. yesterday at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Her husband, Paul Norton, 28, superintendent for the Northwest Telephone Co. in the Ucluelet area, and Jimmy McKay, 30, a Ucluelet fisherman, were killed in the accident, which occurred near the west coast town on the road from Tofino.

McKay was driver of the second vehicle in the head-on crash.

Mrs. Norton stayed in Royal Jubilee Hospital except for a short time in November, when she was taken to the home of her parents, Rev. and Mrs. Douglas Kendall, 2521 Sinclair.

In addition to her parents and children, Susan Elspeth and Jeffrey Paul, now living with their grandparents, she is survived by a brother, Michael, Victoria, and a sister, Nancy, Toronto.

That gallant, time-honored ship of the first line, "HMS Pinafore," sailed into the Royal Theatre last night, bravely manned by the Gilbert and Sullivan Society.

Those aboard, from the admiral to the midshipmite, handled her magnificently. They skilfully utilized every breath provided by the strong following wind of Gilbert's sparkling libretto and every ripple from the mighty following tide of Sullivan's inspired music.

FEW AT QUAY

"Pinafore" was navigated to this great success by Stanley Hoban and Tony Nicholson, and it was a sincere pity that there were not more to welcome them at the quay.

From this scintillating crew and their delightful female companions, it is impossible to pick a star. Each player is deserving of the highest congratulations on a voyage well sailed and a triumphant homecoming.

REALLY EXCELLENT

The lead part of Josephine was really excellently sung and played by Terry French and, along with her, were stellar performances by Eleanor Duff as Buttercup, Norman Tyrrell as Captain Corcoran and Ellis Todd as Admiral Sir Joseph Porter.

"HMS Pinafore," in port for three days, will be open to visitors again tonight and Wednesday at eight bells of the second dog watch—8.15

is now aged for 10 years

Wiser's DeLuxe, long recognized as a superb 8-year old whisky, is now aged for 10 years in charred oak casks.

These ten quiet years of ageing in wood have given Wiser's DeLuxe a natural smoothness and lightness of flavour, so noticeably different, that even the least taste-conscious will find this whisky outstanding.

You will also like the new Wiser's DeLuxe bottle. Its simple, dignified elegance will reflect your good taste, particularly when entertaining at home.

If Wiser's DeLuxe is already your favourite whisky you will now enjoy it more than ever. If it isn't, we sincerely believe that once you taste it, you will never settle for anything less, regardless of any other brand you may have been attached to in the past.

Try Wiser's DeLuxe with water, soda or on-the-rocks, any way you prefer. Only then will you fully appreciate the deluxe quality of this 10-year old whisky.

Victoria Minister: Communists' Success 'Something to Admire'

A Victoria minister says he can find aspects of communism to admire, without admiring communism.

"I have to admire people who are successful even if I can't admire the things they stand for," Rev. S. J. Parsons of Centennial United Church explained to the Lions Club.

"If the Communists are winning in the world today, it seems to me we must stand back and admire their astuteness, their strategy, their conviction and their loyalty to their cause."

But Dr. Parsons advocated that the Western world should do more than stand back and admire.

"We can never win against communism unless we can fire our people with something other than the satisfaction of our physical lives," he said.

"We must get our young people fired with what we believe in."

The Communists, he said, have taken a philosophy, made it into a faith, translated it into a program of action and given it wholehearted support, and the "West must do the same with the Christian concept of democracy."

"That," he said, "is the challenge of this thing called communism."

Where Eichmann Goes Silent Guards Follow

TEL AVIV, Israel (Reuters) —Everywhere the prisoner goes two guards follow, watching his every move.

The men never speak—their only communication is in sign language. A light shines constantly in the prisoner's cell and the guards work in shifts keeping watch, one inside and one outside the bars.

MILD-MANNERED
The mild-mannered appearance of the prisoner in his open-necked shirt and khaki trousers scarcely seems to warrant giving him so much attention. Even those who know his identity find it difficult to believe that the middle-aged prisoner is Adolf Eichmann, accused mass murderer of millions of Jews during the Second World War.

The constantly-burning light and the double guard are part of the elaborate security precautions Israel has taken to make sure Eichmann faces justice when he comes to trial sometime next year. Constantly haunting Israeli officials is the memory of Hermann Goering cheating the gallows by swallowing poison in his prison cell at Nuernberg.

WATCHED CONSTANTLY
The prisoner is kept in the innermost compartment of the grey-walled "Teggart fortress" in a cell about 20 by 30 feet.

An unarmed guard is permanently stationed inside the room, furnished only with bare necessities: A bed, a table, a chair. Outside, within sight and sound of the prisoner, an armed guard is on duty around the clock.

The only sunlight that enters the room is through a small, iron-barred window high up on the wall.

MADE OF METAL
Each morning, Eichmann is led to the adjoining bathroom. The mirror which he is allowed for shaving is made of metal.

The razor given him is that of his guards. At meal times, a guard goes to the common kitchen, picks up any of the many plates ready for the prison personnel and takes it to the prisoner.

As part of his daily routine, Eichmann scrubs the floor of his room, which he keeps spotlessly clean.

WASHES CLOTHES
Occasionally, he washes his clothes in the bathroom, again under close watch from two guards.

Eichmann's only relaxation comes during brief periods of reading — light German-language novels provided from the police library.

He takes his daily exercise in a small courtyard especially fenced-in for his use.

The guards detailed to watch Eichmann form a tight unit whose members are virtually cut off from the rest of the world. They were carefully checked and screened before being appointed and one of the qualifications for the job was that they must not know any German.

Would your life insurance pass this test?

Financial security for the family depends on how well these five basic needs are provided for. Will your life insurance and other resources

1 meet the heavy expenses that will occur at your death

2 cancel all family debts including mortgage on your home and estate taxes

3 furnish a living income for the family while children are dependent

4 provide enough money to carry out your plans for their higher education

5 and give your wife a worry free source of funds after the children are on their own

If you are in doubt on any of these points, call the Man from Manufacturers. He has a practical measuring device, the Security Graph, that will help you determine whether there are any gaps in your family's financial security.

AT LAST! RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Are you blaming constipation on middle age when the cause is really lack of bulk in the foods you eat? If this is the case, you can correct the trouble the Kellogg's All-Bran way.

Here's why: Kellogg's All-Bran is a whole bran cereal—nature's best bulk-forming food. It gives your system the good food bulk that may now be missing. Just a daily half-cup of Kellogg's All-Bran with milk can supply all the bulk you need to help restore the regularity of youth.

Millions stay on schedule this appetizing way. Try Kellogg's All-Bran every day for 10 days—see if it doesn't give you the results you want.

OTTAWA — Canada should do something about preventing mentally deficient persons from marrying and raising children, says C. A. Cathers (PC—York North).

"I know I am on a delicate religious subject," Cathers, a Protestant, told the Commons during debate on a resolution urging a national survey of mental illness.

"But I say that today, when you consider the number of mentally deficient children, we should do something about it. I think the church should adopt a more positive attitude."

VANCOUVER—Hon. H. H. Stevens, too ill for his annual birthday walk around Stanley Park last year for the first time in 26 years, plans a comeback Thursday, his 82nd birthday.

LONDON — Prince Serge Obolensky, scion of an old Imperial Russian family, died at 81. His son, the late Prince Alexander Obolensky, is a near-legendary figure among English rugby football fans.

KHATMANDU, Nepal — Sir Edmund Hillary arrived with a red scalp destined for scientific examination in the U.S. to prove it belonged to an "abominable snowman."

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Diefenbaker didn't vote in Monday's civic elections. An assessor neglected to list him as tenant of a government-owned house at 24 Sussex Drive.

HONG KONG — American Dr. Thomas Dooley, stricken again by cancer, says he's going back to his medical mission in Laos anyway.

WACO, Texas — Claude Rothery, 42, the pilot who led U.S. atomic bombers to Hiroshima and Nagasaki, has walked away from a veterans' hospital where he was a mental patient.

School Pay Ruled Unchanged

A spokesman for the B.C. School Trustees Association said in Victoria last night two "hold-the-line" decisions handed down in B.C. Interior salary disputes indicate a "breakthrough" of teachers' demands.

Arthur Guttman, research director for the trustees group, said in Kamloops an arbitration board brought down a majority award that salary scales remain unchanged next year. In the small neighboring district of Barriere a similar report was made unanimously.

Arbitration awards are binding on both parties.

In Victoria the hearing of a salary dispute with teachers was tentatively scheduled for Thursday morning. But officials said the date had to be confirmed by teachers' representatives.

Oust-Mayor Petition Received, Filed

ALBERNI — This city's embattled woman mayor and the aldermen with whom she has been exchanging harsh words for months last night calmly and quietly received and filed a petition from 776 ratepayers calling for the mayor to resign.

There was no sign of emotion on the part of Mayor Mabel Anderson, who remained silent.

Her council opponents, Aldermen Tom Barnett, Charles Blair, Fred Bishop and George Dunbar, several of whom have made blistering attacks in the recent past, refrained from comment.

In fact, if it hadn't been for the curiosity of one of Mayor Anderson's supporters, Ald. Gordon Lundine, the petition would not have been read out loud at all.

The document received and filed was a copy of the petition which was addressed to Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black. A third copy has been sent to Alberni MLA John Squire. It was circulated by the Alberni Voters' Association.

Failing the mayor's resignation, the petition calls for a provincial investigation of the city's affairs.

The paper expresses "extreme concern by a significant number of citizens in Alberni over the manner in which our civic affairs are being run by the present mayor."

"We request that you ask Mayor Anderson to resign," it said, "since any effort on our part to get public recognition of this public expression of opinion would be useless."

It said the mayor had bypassed many similar requests. "In many people's opinion the mayor is incompetent, and it is on this basis we feel she should be asked to resign."

"In the event that this does not appear possible to yourself, we think that such a situation indicates a very definite need of an inquiry into our city's proceedings, and ask that you take proper action."

An audience of about 15, nearly all of them from the voters' association, sat silently through the meeting.

Ice Takes Heavy Toll in Cars

Alberni Road Worst Spot

Icy Island roads claimed a heavy toll in damaged cars Sunday, but there were no reports of injuries.

Worst trouble spot was the mountain stretch of the Alberni Highway, where one car skidded and turned over, two went into the ditch and another rammed an earth bank.

In the Duncan area, one car rolled down a 30-foot bank, and another hit a telephone pole and overturned.

CARS COLLIDE

South of Fanny Bay, two cars collided on an icy patch of road.

Allan G. Evans of Qualicum was the driver of the car that overturned on the Alberni Highway. He said his car skidded off the road when he hit a patch of slick old blacktop after running on recently-applied rough surface. Damage was about $500.

In the same place and under the same circumstances, a vehicle driven by Charles Horrocks of Port Alberni skidded into the ditch but remained upright. Damage was about $100.

ICY CURVE

An icy curve sent a car driven by Bert Bryant into the ditch. Another vehicle driven by Kharah Singh, attempting to dodge the skidding Bryant car, slammed across the road and into an embankment. Total damage was about $1,000.

An accident Saturday night, attributed to mechanical failure rather than ice, caused $300 damage to two vehicles. A car driven by Ken McMurdo went out of control and struck a vehicle driven by Edward Sadzak, on the curve between River Road and Falls Road.

SLID SIDWAYS

In the Duncan accidents, a car driven by Ralph Harvey of Koksilah was wrecked at 3.30 a.m. Sunday when it slid sideways on an icy patch, hurtled off the road and crashed down a 30-foot bank on Miller Road, south of the city.

Another car, driven by Clarence Daniels, also of Koksilah, hit a pole and turned over on Allenby Road at 3.30 p.m.

One Youth Jailed, Two Fined

NANAIMO — One youth was sent to jail, another will go to jail if he doesn't pay a $30 fine and costs immediately, and a third was fined $25 for Saturday night liquor offences.

John William Andrew McCormick, 20, pleaded guilty to drunken driving and also to being a minor in possession of liquor. Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts explained that there is no fine for the first charge, only a 14 days. On the possession charge he was fined $25.

Ronald Leslie Thompson, also 20, was fined $25 on a possession charge. Barry Trevor Rafter, also charged with possession, admitted he purchased two cases of beer in a downtown hotel. He was fined $50.

Warships End Visit to Boston

BOSTON (AP) — The RCN aircraft carrier Bonaventure and her destroyer escort HMCS Cayuga sailed Monday after a week's visit to Boston. The 16,000-ton carrier will engage in sea exercises for the next week before going to Halifax.

She Stole to Give

Tearful Trip For Shopper

By CHARLES THOMPSON

DUNCAN — Among the gay Christmas shoppers and the splashes of color, the homely little girl's tears looked out of place.

She was a shoplifter at 11 years old, and she had been caught.

She stole to make people happy. She wanted to be able to give something. Whether she was trying to buy love or attention or a feeling of security is hard to say.

It had been her first attempt at stealing. Her take was valued at more than $18. Her possession of the articles had led to questions at home. It was decided she would return the goods in person and apologize.

Saturday she returned the goods to the stores. A male, adult friend went ahead — without her knowing. He explained what she had done. He explained she had not stolen before.

When she faced the store managers she carried a small bag of wallets, babushkas and colorful handkerchiefs to be worn around the neck. Pieces of toilet paper with names written on them were in the wallets.

The first store manager heard her pathetic "I'm sorry." She cried. Her guardian cried. The store manager almost cried. He let the child go.

The second store manager lectured her, because he had been plagued with petty thievery. And then she seemed to realize how then it is to take someone else's property.

Unionist Warns

Check-Off Castoff Means Trouble

NANAIMO — The worst labor unrest the province has ever seen was predicted by Arnold Smith, president of the Nanaimo Carpenters' Union, if B.C. law is changed so that it is no longer compulsory for employers to handle union dues check-off.

The move was recommended recently in a brief from the B.C. Contractors' Association, which Mr. Smith attacked as representing less than 1 per cent of the contractors in B.C.

The issue was discussed at Nanaimo, Alberni and District Labor Council.

A Courtenay delegate, David

McGarvin of the newly-formed Union of Unemployed, criticized the payment of unemployment insurance to wives of armed services personnel when they lose their jobs.

There was also criticism of moonlighting by RCAF men at the Comox base.

VOTE FOR SALLY ROGERS

CAMPBELL RIVER — Four UBC biologists spent a cold but sunny Sunday finishing up the doe and fawn hunting check for this season.

Philip Shapley, William Munro, Peter Elliott and Laszlo Retfalvi were kept busy taking out jawbones of animals brought past their checkpoint at Campbell River bridge. The bones will be studied for age, bone formation and calcium content.

Thrills, Spills Raise $200 for City's Needy

Downtown Trees Potted Tomorrow

Workmen will erect 18 Christmas trees in decorated wooden pots along Yates Street, between Douglas and Government Streets, tomorrow.

The trees, each 10 feet high, will be decorated later this week with festoons of 50 white lights each.

The decoration is being carried out by Victoria Chamber of Commerce. Merchants in other city blocks can arrange to decorate their sidewalks in the same way.

Chamber Group

Breakwater Asked For Cadboro Bay

Construction of a breakwater in the entrance to Cadboro Bay may be sought by the harbor and transportation group of the Chamber of Commerce.

But first, the group decided yesterday, it will try to find if the proposal has ever before resulted in a survey or serious study.

T. G. Denny, who put the suggestion before the group, said such a breakwater—"not a little dinky breakwater," but a large one across the mouth of the bay with openings perhaps at both ends—could make the bay a useful haven for large and small pleasure and commercial boats.

Steps would have to be taken, however, to make sure the bay was not used for

Holly Crop A Sellout On Island

Sale of this year's entire crop of Vancouver Island holly was practically guaranteed yesterday upon receipt here of new orders from Eastern Canada.

Earlier sales were heaviest in the Prairie provinces.

To keep up with the orders, a night shift will work from today through Saturday at the association's packinghouse in Victoria, said an industry spokesman.

Angry, Jobless City Shipyard Workers Call for Mass Meeting, MP's Resignation

Spurred by "worsening unemployment" within its ranks, a local shipyard union yesterday called for resignation of city MP A. DeB. McPhillips and a mass meeting of unemployed in Greater Victoria.

James McConachy, business agent for Local 91, International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, said 200 members of his union alone are now jobless and the situation is "worsening all the time."

Victoria Labor Council will be asked to stage the mass demonstration of unemployed workers in all trades, said Mr. McConachy. The central labor body is asked also to circulate a petition calling for Mr. McPhillips' resignation from the Commons.

Pleas mailed to Prime Minister Diefenbaker and members of his cabinet calling for more shipbuilding contracts to help local industry have brought several replies to date, said Mr. McConachy, but

Arena Rehiring? It's Still a Secret

Memorial Arena Commission met in secret session for nearly six hours without a break last night to discuss a "suggestion" from city council that it reinstate six employees whose resignation precipitated the arena controversy.

As members filed out of the committee room in the arena shortly after 10 p.m. commission chairman F. G. Mulliner was asked what decision was reached in the meeting.

"Who wants to know?" Mr. Mulliner asked a reporter, and when told the public wanted to know, the chairman said: "I don't give a damn who wants to know."

After hurried consultations with other members of the commission, Mr. Mulliner said later "We are in the process of preparing a written report to the mayor and council. It wouldn't be fair to disclose the contents at this time."

Was any decision reached at the meeting? "No comment," said Mr. Mulliner.

Mayor Scurrah proposed to members of the arena commission at the close of a public meeting with city council to discuss the controversy over mass resignations on the arena staff that six former employees be re-instated until a new manager is hired.

Rotary Opens Drive For Goodwill Shops

Holiday at Sea

Weather Ship Off Today

The weather ship CGS Stonetown is due to sail today for her lonely north Pacific station on a tour of duty that will keep her at sea over the festive season.

Supplies of Christmas pudding, turkey, beer and Christmas trees were loaded aboard the ship yesterday to brighten the seven-week voyage.

Stonetown is expected to reach weather station Papa, some 900 miles off Cape Flattery, Friday and relieve her sister ship CGS Catherine which is due to arrive here Monday.

Making a start toward construction of a $200,000 Goodwill Enterprises workshop building in Victoria West to employ another 100 handicapped men, women and young people, the Rotary Club yesterday opened a campaign for $25,000.

Aim is to start construction of the building in April, 1962. Enabling the present Goodwill Enterprises premises at 560 Yates to be given over entirely to retail selling, the factory will consist of a warehouse for materials, sorting area, textile workshop including laundry and dry cleaning units, repair shops, kitchen and dining room to serve hot, low-cost lunches for the staff, medical unit, non-denominational chapel, offices and service and parking facilities.

The building will have a branch store in front and a garden area where employees can sit in the noon hour in good weather.

Directed by a group of business and professional men who donate their time, Goodwill Enterprises is sponsored by Victoria Rotary.

Air force authorities said the building is intended to help make service life more attractive for the men and their families.

Glowing Tree Growing, Too

DUNCAN — For the 14th year, this city's largest Christmas tree is glowing with colored lights—but its owners are wondering how long they can keep on decorating it.

"During the last year the 55-foot tree has grown about five feet.

"When we built the house we trimmed its roots. Whether it's too big to trim now, we don't know, but we are wondering how long we can keep it up," laughed Mrs. Walter M. Hudson, 320 Herbert, yesterday.

The tree is on Hospital Hill, overlooking the city, and can be seen from most parts of town. It is a popular stop for sightseers.

"We do appreciate the loyalty to our tree," said Mrs. Hudson. "When people go to Vancouver they tell everybody that Duncan's tree is as good as anything there."

Why does the family go to the trouble each year? "We just like to decorate," said the amiable Mrs. Hudson.

NANAIMO — A dog needs a licence even if it doesn't live in the city, a Nanaimo district man discovered through a court appearance and a $2 fine. Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts pointed to the Sheep Protection Act and noted that a dog running at large may be shot on sight.

There have been many complaints recently of loose dogs in the Cedar, Harewood and Northfield districts.

COWICHAN BAY—Work is expected to start soon on construction of lighting on the government wharf built here six years ago.

It never had lights. Contracts for construction and service have been let, district marine agent Keith Dixon wrote the Cowichan Bay Salmon Club. They had already been awarded before the club suggested it.

The power bill is to be paid from wharfage charges, which are one cent a foot or a minimum of 25 cents a day.

DUNCAN — Maple Bay Inn has been sold to two Greater Vancouver businessmen for $90,000.

One of the new owners, Jim Gavins, said yesterday floats and fuel pumps are to be added to the hotel's facilities for a marina.

Mr. Gavins has owned several garages. His partner, Ralph Lansdell, now an oil company distributor in North Vancouver, is the son of a former Duncan businessman.

Air force authorities said the building is intended to help make service life more attractive for the men and their families.

The two-storey steel-and-concrete building sets a new standard for RCAF stations in Canada. It replaces a ramshackle wartime hut of a type still in use elsewhere.

About 550 airmen will use the new facilities, which include dining and recreational areas with room for holding meetings, dances and other events.

Men on the station will contribute up to $10,000 in the next 18 months for furnishings and other amenities in the new building. They have already bought the authentic Indian carvings that decorate the social room.

PENDER ISLAND — The Bellingham Junior Chamber of Commerce is again sponsoring its annual Christmas ship to U.S. and Canadian islands. This year the trip will be made on Dec. 17 and 18, and stops will be made at seven U.S. islands, as well as the Canadian Islands — Salt Spring, Galiano, Mayne, Pender and Saturna.

The ship will heave to at island ports amid the peal of Christmas carols and Santa will step from beneath the brightly-lit Christmas tree, bearing bags of candy for all the children.

This year the idea of an exchange of treats for children across the international boundary, with the ship making the deliveries, is catching the imagination of islanders.

DUNCAN — The annual 50-member "Carols by Candlelight" hour of the combined United Church junior and senior choirs will be held Dec. 18 at 7.30 p.m. in the church.

Higher Pay Asked For School Chiefs

B.C. school trustees yesterday asked the provincial cabinet to increase the salaries of district school superintendents. In a number of areas throughout the province, school principals are at present receiving more than superintendents and the trustees felt that the senior official should get more.

They also presented cabinet with a copy of resolutions passed at their annual convention last October.

Keen Demand Brings Eggs from Mainland

Owing to high seasonal sales, eggs were in keen demand in Victoria yesterday, and some eggs had to be brought over from the mainland to meet the local requirements.

The shortage has caused the price of large, medium and small Grade A eggs to rise by two cents a dozen.

New Party Choice Here Won't Be 'Just CCFer'

NOT JUST A NAME: The national director of New Party Clubs, R. Desmond Sparham, told us yesterday that if the New Party has a candidate running in the Esquimalt-Saanich federal by-election he must be a legitimate New Partygoer not just a CCFer running under a different banner.

Such a candidate, he said, should be chosen by members of the CCF, trade unionists and members of New Party Clubs he helped form in Esquimalt-Saanich and Victoria during the last two days.

"Unless they do this they will not succeed," he said. "But I doubt if they will try to fool the people. It would be letting down the New Party."

Mr. Sparham, a former Englishman who began life as a coal miner when he was 14, described himself as "a good strong, passionate Canadian."

He said the New Party was specifically designed for every Canadian who saw himself as

NO JUSTICE: Unhappiest guy in town is rookie Cougar coach George Agar, whose hapless players have scored a total of 17 goals in the past four games yet have lost all four.

WINTER WORK: A Gulf Islands resident who noticed the item here about Chief Mungo Martin and Henry Hunt, local totem pole carvers who are about to join the unemployed, is interested in having a special nine-foot pole carved for her home.

This should provide the carvers with a few days extra work—providing the price is reasonable—and other readers may feel similarly inclined.

Could be that a thriving custom-carved totem pole business may be built up.

PAY PACKET: The word is that B.C.'s newest cabinet minister, Mrs. Buda Brown, will be paid a salary despite what it says in the Constitution Act.

Officially a minister without portfolio cannot receive a salary but is eligible for expenses. It's expected this will be amended at the coming session.

Present salaries for cabinet ministers are $17,500 each, which includes the $5,000 seasonal indemnity paid to each member of the legislature.

BACK TO BACK: Campaign officials for unionist Alfred W. Toome, standing for city council, asked perennial prankster Bill Scott if he would mind putting a big "vote for Toome" poster in his window.

Bill obliged but once the officials were gone he turned the placard back to front and scrawled out a "vote for Victor Williams" on the back before putting it in the window.

From outside the store it was a plug for Mr. Williams, inside it was a plug for Mr. Toome.

Bill's joy was shortlived. The campaign workers soon came back, complained that they were short of placards and took it away.

OVERWORKED: If you feel in need of a minute-long inspirational message and dial EV 5-261 for the religious thought of the day be prepared for a long wait.

The newly-inaugurated "Dial-a-thoughts" service is evidently getting a lot of business. It's almost perpetually busy.

Mrs. Hibbard saw she was being watched, she tossed the clothing in a rubbish can.

Frank Hibbard said he had no knowledge of his wife's thefts. He once questioned her about some clothing and was told she got it "from a friend."
